was the first I cannot say. Nothing is left of the habitation now.

Simeon Young lived a little west on the south side in a log cabin. He was followed by Porter Pierce and he by Asa Murray.

Albert S. Harran took the next tract west on south side in 1834, where he built a log house and later a frame one. It passed to his son John A., and from him to Arthur Sampier, who now owns it. John A. Harran some thirty years ago bought the Hopkins farm on the south side of the road in Hopkinton village. He was a large, intelligent man and in every way a good neighbor and citizen. He suddenly died in his home in the summer of 1902.

David Fisk had a log house across the road from Mr. Harran. George Wilkinson, who was a tailor, lived there after Mr. Fisk. His daughter Hannah married Sumner Sweet of Nicholville. His other children were Martha, who married Mr. Alonzo Rhoades; William of Nicholville, and George, who was lame and died; Mary, who married Porter Pierce; Harriet, brought up by Dr. Sprague, married a Mr. Williams of Vermont. Mr. Harran bought the farm.

John Leach, father of David, took a tract in 1835 next west of Mr. Harran on south side, where he had a log house, all trace of which has gone.

Samuel Clark had a log house on the north side and a little west of John Leach. The Naylor family lived there after Mr. Clark, though Mr. Naylor only came now and then. They were followed by Rufus Greene, who, I learn from the records, took title. He had a large family of bright children. They were, so far as I learn, William, Ira, Jane, who married Darius E. Kent; Mary, who married John Leach, Jr.; Robert and Melvin. David Leach acquired the farm and lived there till his recent death. It is now held by his widow, with Carlos Colton in charge.

Rufus Greene came from ——, Vt., and took the tract next west of John Leach on the south side. His wife was Jane Wood, and they had nine children: viz., 1 Pliny, d 1850 who died in California; 2 Jane, who married Darius E. Kent in 1842; 3 Melville, who died at Racine, Wis.; 4 William, 5 Lucius,

Pliny d. CA, Nov, 1850

6 Ira, who died in Missouri; 7 Charles, who died in California; 8 Mary, who married John Leach and now lives at Havana, N. D.; and 9 Robert, who died at Racine, Wis. All are dead except Mary. William S. Howe bought it in 1848. He lived for a time in a log house. It was so old and cold that he spent several winters in the house in Hopkinton village which he had first bought. After a time he built the present buildings which stand back from the road. He sold out some thirty-five years ago when he built a brick residence in Parishville village where he now resides. His children were and are Daniel, of Wichita, Kan.; and Ella (Mrs. P. H. Smith), of Brooklyn, N. Y. Nelson Gardner and Jeff Rowell have held it since.

Jesse Moon took the tract next west on south side. He sold to John Smith, who acquired the first title. It passed to his son Josiah, and is now held by John Ramo. Mr. Moon and Nanthaniel Baldwin built a sawmill on the rear end of the farm, which was run for some years with indifferent success owing to a shortage of water.

Lewis Richardson had a log house on the north side, a little west of Mr. Smith. David Leach lived there at first before buying the place next east. Nothing remains to denote its once existence, and the land about is cheerless indeed.

Barney Moon had a log house on the south side, just over the "Pinnacle," which the rise of ground at this point was called. I see that D. E. Kent got the first title. He sold to John Cutler, who built the present frame house. In digging his well he had to go down fifty-two feet to reach water. His children were, so far as I learn, Emma (Mrs. John A. Harran of Hopkinton), Marilla (Mrs. Roswell Andrews), Silas, deceased, and Harlon of ——. The place is now held by Silas Rockwood.

William G. Richardson took title to seventy-nine acres across the road which is now pretty nearly a sand waste. He died there and the buildings have all gone.

Willard Smith took the place west of Mr. Cutler and of the road leading south. Amasa Hurlbut took the first title to it. George Kimball also lived on it for a time, when Dyer Hazen bought it years ago and now holds it.

den's former prosperity and importance. The lumber business on the lower Ausable dwindled into insignificance many years ago. The depression in the iron business in 1856 forced McLean & Fitzgerald into bankruptcy, and, to put a final end to all manufacturing enterprises at New Sweden, the memorable freshet of 1856 carried everything away. Forges, saw-mills, coal-houses, blacksmith-shops, the dam, the bridge, and even the earth on which they stood were swept down the Ausable. Barren and jagged rocks and deep gullies in the sand are now all that is to be seen where these once thrifty manufactories stood. It is even difficult to mark the exact spot where some of them were located. Many of the houses have been torn down or have tumbled down, and the locality wears a desolate appearance. But few people reside there, and New Sweden is wellnigh one of the things that were.

John Fitzgerald died in 1865. A son is living, Mr. J. C. Fitzgerald, now of Black Brook, and a daughter, Mrs. Fairbanks, of Ausable Forks. Dr. William V. K. McLean, well known and respected for his character, ability, and influence, died a few years ago at a good old age. He was one of the principal supporters of the Presbyterian Church at Clintonville. His sons living are Judge Campbell McLean, of Fond du Lac, Wis., P. V. N. McLean, of Keeseville; and daughters living, Mrs. Elisha Arnold, of Keeseville, and Mrs. W. W. Hartwell and Mrs. C. H. Foote, of Plattsburgh.

The immense hydraulic power afforded by the Ausable River, at Keeseville, was early utilized, and some reference has been made to its early industrial life.

The first iron manufactory, a rolling-mill, was constructed in 1815, and operations commenced in 1816, by the Keeseville Rolling and Slitting Mill Company. Two principal members of the firm were Richard and Oliver Keese, brothers, the former the father of our informant, and of Oliver Keese, 2d, who died a few years since. The other members of the firm were John W. Anderson, Rodman and Caleb Brown, and last, but not least, Joseph Call, the great wrestler, perhaps the strongest man of his age. Richard Keese was immediately succeeded by his son, then Richard Keese, Jr.

The old rolling-mill of 1815 manufactured nail-plate principally, and the "slitting" process, which the name of the firm indicates, was one which is now superseded. They then slit the wide plates up into horse-nail rods, whereas they now roll them out. The old mill did something at making boiler-plate, and had the honor of making the plate of the old steamer "Congress," on Lake Champlain.

The lumber business on the Ausable River at that early period was immense. Large saw-mills were constructed at Keeseville, and at frequent intervals up the river, and this was the general outlet and trading centre for this large business. Seth and Martin Pope built a large mill on the Chesterfield side of the river, at the upper bridge, in 1821, and Fisk & Keese (Oliver 2d) soon after built a gang-mill on the Ausable side.

In 1816, the Keeseville Rolling and Slitting Mill Company put in a machine, run by water, for cutting straight, headless nails. These nails all had to go through the slow process of being headed, which required ten machines run by hand. Such was the stage of nail-manufacturing no longer ago than 1815.

In 1824 or 1825, Joshua Aiken and Pascal P. Spear (many of our readers will remember the latter) introduced nail-machines run by water and cutting nails with heads, very much like the nail-machines now in use.

In 1820, Richard Keese built the upper dam and put in a two-fired forge on the Ausable side of the river. The ore was from the Arnold mine, and the iron was worked right up by the rolling-mill. Elias A. Hurlburt soon after became an equal partner. In 1826, Mr. Keese was elected to Congress, and sold out his entire interest in the forge to Hurlburt, Aiken & Prindle.

In 1832 this company was formed, and consolidated the entire iron business of Keeseville, except the extensive furnace of which we shall speak elsewhere. The company was a strong one, much of the stock being taken in Troy. They did a heavy business for many years. The old forge at the upper dam was abandoned about 1840. They built a new one of four fires at the lower works, and used the escape heat for heating iron in the rolling-mill, an economical process which worked well.

In 1840, Edmund and Jacob D. Kingsland, who had formerly been doing business at Bouquet Falls, built a forge of six fires at the lower dam, or Birmingham, where the rolling-mill now stands. The firm was E. Kingsland and J. D. Kingsland.

In 1847 the firm of E. & J. D. Kingsland & Co. was formed, which bought out the Keeseville Manufacturing Company, and consolidated the business with the works at Birmingham. They did an immense business, not only in manufacturing, but in buying up all the surplus iron in the country and sending it to market. They rebuilt the rolling-mill and nail-factory at Keeseville, with all the latest improvements, putting in about 50 cut-nail machines, turning out about 60 tons of cut-nails a week. In 1852 they built a rolling-mill at Birmingham. Their rolling-mill turned out about 4000 tons of iron a year,—3000 tons into plates for cut-nails, and 1000 tons into merchant iron. The firm struggled hard and manfully against the general depression in the iron business, and not till 1862 did they even temporarily abandon the field. In that year the entire machinery of the rolling-mills and nail-factory was sold to the Burlington Manufacturing Company, and the Keeseville works were effectually dismantled.

Then followed an area of business stagnation in Keeseville which was never before witnessed. The events of the war gave it some signs of life, but in other respects it seemed a perpetual Sunday. One could stand on the principal street, on a week-day, without being able to see a single person from one end of the street to the other. Not until about 1865 did Keeseville begin to resume its wonted liveliness and thrift. But during its years of depression a business cloud no bigger at first than a man's hand was accumulating its forces, until it at last poured out upon the village a copious and continuous shower of prosperity.

The foundry business has always been an important branch of industry in Keeseville. The first foundry was built by Joseph Goulding in 1829, and in 1832 the copartnership of Goulding & Peabody was formed.

Brown sons?

An Englishman, by the name of York, settled many years ago south by west of Huckleberry Mountain. His son now occupies the place.

The road leading north from the Union, and which was called the Rogers road, crossed, as it does now, the Little Ausable about half a mile west of Peru village. On this road about one-fourth of a mile north of the river lived John Stanton, one of the first settlers of Peru. He came with his wife from Dutchess County, about 1790. A goodly-favored maid of all work accompanied them, and they had come up with others to establish a home in the wilderness, and help develop the resources of the country. All went well until, in the course of nature, a serious difficulty arose between Stanton and his amiable spouse, which caused the latter to demand that Stanton should return her to her father's house in Dutchess County. It was the winter season, so placing his wife on a hand-sled, of his own handiwork, Stanton started on his journey. Proceeding by the most favorable route to the lake, he traveled up to Skenesborough (now Whitehall), thence to Fort Edward, and by way of the Hudson River to Dutchess County. After the lapse of five weeks he returned alone to his home, and to the maid-servant, the cause of the contention, and who had also become the mother of a child. Freed by his hand-sled divorce, Stanton married the servant, and assumed the responsibilities of a father to one of the first children born among the first settlers in the ancient boundaries of Peru.

The road from the river up to the Stanton place was through a dense swamp of treacherous ground, where, in the legendary age, witches astride of broomsticks, with jack-o'lanterns, held high revelry on dark nights, during certain seasons of the year. Chemical science has since demonstrated that combustible gases, generated in decaying animal and vegetable matter, burns as it escapes into the common air, and gives a ghostly appearance in the dark.

Benjamin Smith settled at West Peru at an early day. He owned a mile square of land in that locality, and was a man of influence and prominence. During the war of 1812 he engaged largely in furnishing supplies to the troops, but, owing to military seizures and other contingencies of the war, he suffered heavy pecuniary loss, became broken in health and spirits, and finally died. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Stephen and Ruth Keese, in 1803, and had children,—Mary, Stephen B., Ruth, Abigail, Sarah H., Samuel, Thomas, Eliza, Hannah, and Benjamin F. Stephen B. is an old and esteemed resident of Peru at this time.

The first settler at what was formerly called Bartonville, on the Little Ausable River, and now known as Lapham's Mills, was Simon Eells. The tract was included in the Bell Patent, and it is reported that on one occasion the proprietor, William Bell, while looking over his land discovered that some one had been cutting timber on various parts of his 4000-acre lot, whereupon he began to make inquiries among the early settlers of Peru with the view of discovering the offenders and bringing them to justice. He called upon several persons who lived near the outskirts of his big forest tract, but the only information he could elicit from the honest pioneers was that "Uncle Sim Eelles was the only man who had trespassed upon the forbidden ground." At last Bell, worried by his unsuccessful search after more of the pilferers, lost all patience, and recognizing Eells to be the only working man in the locality by his successful raid upon his timber, presented him with a 100-acre lot as a reward for his industry.

Uncle Sim's lot, on which he soon erected a log hut, was about half a mile southeast of the railroad bridge, and his industrious habits formed such a striking feature of his character that the old inhabitants still remember how he used to amuse himself by moving his garden-fence one day and back the next, when he could find nothing else to do.

He built the first saw-mill at this point about the year 1810, the dam of which was very near where the railroad bridge now is. Subsequently another saw-mill was built about one hundred rods above the first, and afterwards several other saw-mills were built below, which did their full share in cutting up the magnificent growth of pine that formerly covered that part of the town. There is hardly a vestige of these first mills left now, except a few "mudsills" that formed the foundation of the dams or mill buildings.

Mention can only be made of a few of the other early settlers of the town.

Abijah Ketchum, father of Benjamin, lived early near the lake.

Isaac Finch lived in the same locality. Robert Platt owned 700 acres on the lake-shore, and was influential in building the Methodist church in that locality.

Simeon Frisbee lived near Platt. Also James Finch, Daniel Chapman, Ebenezer, Isaac, and William Baker, and Uriah Palmer.

At the Union lived Rufus Green, where George Beadlestone now does. John, Lott, and Asa Ellmore, A. Hinckley, George Berdsley, and Russell Ransom lived along the "lake road."

Jabez Allen, Isaac Allen, and Peter Allen settled very early in the Allen neighborhood, where their descendants still reside.

Moses Dickson lived near the mouth of the Great Ausable River at an early day.

John Howe lived and died on Thorp's Patent, in the Peasleville locality.

Uriah Waterman and the four Arthur brothers settled about half-way between Peru village and Keeseville. A tavern was kept there for a time by A. Allen. Joel Buck had an inn near by.

Solomon Moon lived early near Goshen.

Joshua Wells lived early at Birmingham, in the town of Ausable.

Robert Day lived on the fordway between Keeseville and the Forks. Jeremiah and Elihu Hayes lived near by.

Benjamin Earls lived a little south of Peru village, and taught school at an early day at the Union.

John Cochran, Jr., John Dobbs, Israel Reynolds, and William Pollard lived early about three miles northeast from Peru village.

Moses Soper was a very early settler about a mile south of Peru village. He then moved to Salmon River, where he erected a mill. He subsequently died there.

Israel Buck lived near where Moses Soper first settled.

Rufus GREENE ABOVE FATHER OF CALEB GREENE ?

Robert and William Anson settled early in what is now the town of Ausable.

The Southwick family lived very early on Halleck Hill, and had a tannery there.

Among other early settlers were John Howe, Isaac Finch, Abijah Ketchum, Ezekiel Lockwood, Samuel Jackson, Cyrenus Newcomb, George Hayworth, Benjamin Sherman, and Silas and Robert Cochran.

The following list of the inhabitants of the original town of Peru is taken from the records of that town. It was made on May 2, 1796, and the numbers after each name indicate the number of days that each man had to perform labor on the public highways. These figures will also show the relative amount of property possessed by each man, as the number of days' work which he had to perform was measured by the property which he owned. A reference to the description of the districts on the next page will also show the approximate location of each of these persons.

TAVERNS.

Peru, in former days, was on the highway of stage-coaches and private conveyances, and the hotels in their day were well appointed and received abundant patronage. The landlords who used to entertain the public in those days were among the honorable citizens of the town. They enjoyed the confidence and suffrages of the people, dispensed good liquors, wielded the toddy-stick to good effect, and never dreamed that brandy sling, or Holland gin, could degenerate to the deadly modern potion of strychnine and metallic salts.

The first hotel in Peru was kept by Nathan Averill, in the Union, a little north of the house where Widow Rogers lived and died but a few years ago. At that time the Union was the business and commercial centre of Peru. All elections were held and the town business done at that place, and all through travel came from the Indian Pass over Halleck's Hill, and through the Union. Hotel business was lucrative. Robert Batty built a large hotel farther south, below the meeting-house, and his place was largely patronized for many years.

Elisha Button, at Button Brook, kept a well-appointed and spacious house for a long time. His house was on the thoroughfare to the north.

Silas Cochran was the first hotel-keeper in Peru village. His stables were superior, and his house in keeping with the early prestige of the village.

The first hotel north of the river was kept by Garlick & Hackstaff, in a house built by Orange Ferris. The house was a little to the north by west of Franklin Elmore's store. Garlick, in time, built a hotel on the south side of the river, District No. 9: From Henry Green's to Church Hill, or to the other road.

The Rogers road, leading over Halleck Hill and nearly north from the Union to the Saranac River, was for years the only really passable good carriage-road in the town. All others were bridle-paths and cross-roads leading to the cabins of the first settlers. A carriage-road was soon after made from the Stanton place, about one-fourth of a mile north of the river, on the Rogers road, to Cochrane's Hill, on the present site of Peru village.

RAILROADS.

The New York and Canada Railroad passes north and south through the eastern section of the town, and has a station at Valcour.

The Ausable Branch passes from Plattsburgh southwesterly through the town, and has stations at Lapham's Mills and Peru village.

PROMINENT MEN.

Among the men of prominence that the town has either produced or fostered, Elisha Arnold, Henry De Lord, and Judge Keese have already been referred to. The Elmore and Everest families have also been prominent in the councils of the town. Nathan Lapham represented the Sixteenth Senatorial District in the State Senate in 1860 and 1861.

The town has had a full representation in the State Legislature. Asa Adgate represented the district in 1798–99; Elisha Arnold, in 1808; Robert Platt, in 1814–15; Josiah T. Everest, in 1855; and George Hallock, in 1864.

CIVIL ORGANIZATION.

The civil organization of the town begins with the time of its incorporation. The territory comprised in the town includes a large number of patents. Stewart's patent occupied the northeast corner of the town. South of that was Zephaniah Platt's 1665-acre location, with another 600-acre location lying southeast of that, surveyed to the same gentleman. South of the 1665-acre location laid the Gife lot, while west of it was the Bell patent. Newcomb's patent laid north of that, and west of the latter was Thorp's patent, with Watson's patent south of it. The fifth and sixth divisions of the "Old Military Tract" occupied the entire west end of the town.

The first meeting of the town, after the passage of the act of incorporation, was held on Dec. 28, 1792, at the dwelling-house of Samuel Jackson. John Cochran, Jr., was chosen Moderator, and the following town officers were chosen: Edward Everitt, Supervisor; Richard Keese, Isaac Finch, and John Howe, Qualified Assessors; Lott Elmore, John Finch, Gilbert Thew, Qualified Commissioners of Highways; Reuben Arthur, John Elmore, Qualified Constables; Reuben Arthur, Qualified Collector; Jabez Allen, Richard Keese, Qualified Overseers of the Poor; Ezekiel Lockwood, Qualified Poundmaster; Jabez Allen, Samuel Jackson, Qualified Fence-Viewers or Damage "Prisors"; Isaac Finch, Jabez Allen, Daniel Chapman, John Cochran, Jr., Ezekiel Lockwood, Samuel West, and Henry Green, Qualified Overseers of Highways.

It was voted "That every seed hors running at Large after the 2d of April, 1793, shall be liable to be taken up by any Freeholder or Inhabitant of said Town, who after giving Notice their to the owner shall be Entitled to five shilling per Day for Keeping such horse untill the owner shall pay such Charges and secure said hors."

Asa Adgate was chosen town clerk.

April 5, 1796, it was voted also "that ten dollars be paid by the inhabitants of Peru for every wolf killed within the town of Peru in the present year, said wolf to be a full Grone wolf and fresh killed."

April 4, 1815, it was voted "that twenty-five cents Bounty be paid for Every Crow Kild in town by the first Day of July Next."

Since the organization of the town the following persons have filled its principal offices:

EAR-MARKS.

It was the custom of the old settlers, in each of the towns, to mark their sheep, hogs, and cattle with certain marks of identification, which for greater security and safety were recorded in the town-book. It operated as a sort of copyright, and great ingenuity was exercised by the settlers in devising new and original marks. The following are samples taken from a large number:

> "John Keeses Mark is a Square Crop off the Left Ear."
> "Uriah Palmers Mark is a half penny Underside of Each Ear."

STATISTICAL.

The census of 1875 shows that there are in the town 518 dwelling-houses. The number of acres of improved land is 26,114, and of unimproved land 16,115. The cash value of the farms is $1,421,928, and the value of farm-buildings is $167,760.

VILLAGES AND HAMLETS.

THE principal village in the town is PERU VILLAGE, situated on the Ausable River, southeast of the centre of the county. It has a population of about 300 persons, and in former days was a point of great interest and business activity. It is pleasantly laid out; its streets are lined with fine shade-trees, and many of its residences are large, handsome, and attractive in appearance. It contains two churches (a Methodist and Congregational), a grist-mill, a saw-mill, a tannery, a cheese-factory, a starch-factory, a hotel, several stores, a number of shops devoted to the mechanic arts, a post-office, and a railroad depot, which is a station on the Ausable Branch Railroad.

The post-office at Peru was established about the year 1800, and existed at the Union. Among the incumbents of the office of postmaster have been Frank Elmore and Edgar Beckwith. Richard McIntyre has been postmaster for over a quarter of a century.

A short distance northeast of Peru village, situated on the same stream, is LAPHAM'S MILLS, formerly known as Bartonville, in honor of Caleb D. Barton, who established a forge there early in the century. Here are a grist-mill and store, a plaster-mill, a saw- and shingle-mill, and box-factory. The Ausable Branch of the New York and Canada Railroad has a station at the Mills.

VALCOUR (post-office) is situated on Lake Champlain, on the shore opposite the island of that name. The portion bordering on the lake is more anciently and commonly known as Port Jackson. It is a station on the New York and Canada Railroad, and contains a Methodist Episcopal church, a store, post-office, and a few mechanic shops. The post-office was established about 1850. Mr. Morgan has been postmaster for a long time.

PEASLEVILLE (post-office) is a hamlet situated on the Salmon River, in the northwest corner of the town. A forge and store were established here at an early day by Samuel Peasle, and considerable manufacturing and mechanical activity has since existed there. Peasle subsequently removed to Michigan, and became county judge.

PERU LANDING is a hamlet on the lake-shore, north of the mouth of the Ausable River.

SCHOOLS.

Benjamin Earls and Benjamin Sherman taught early schools at the Union, where the first school in the town was established. The former was one of the first teachers in the town, and charged a tuition fee of $1.50 a quarter. M. Finch taught the first school in 1790–91.

The next school was kept at Peru village. Robert Taylor was the first school-teacher there. Men named Twilight and McComber were also early teachers in the same locality.

A school-house was established at Bartonville at an early day.

The Friends were alive to the education of their children. A large academy was built opposite John Green's, where boys, on the first floor, were taught by C. Stoddard, Elihu Marshall, Samuel Rogers, and others; and, on the second floor, girls were taught by Mary Rogers, Phœbe Keese, and others. On mid-week meeting-days, teachers walked abreast, the school by twos marching behind their representative teachers in and out of church.

The town was first divided into school districts on June 2, 1813, by Benjamin Sherman, William Keese, and Robert Platt, commissioners. The number of districts was 13.

little flatiron piece of Mr. Post's farm crossed the road, and it was on this that he built. The place was afterwards held by Cornelius Winne, and is still called the Winne place. Mr. Smith moved into Stockholm and from there in 1841 to Dresden, Ohio, and from there in 1850 to Reedsburg, Wis., where several of his descendants reside.

Job Greene took title to the south half or part of lot number forty-three, situate on the north side of the road, and next west of Reuben Post's farm, in 1806. It took in the Big Hollow and extended west on the Sanford road some forty rods. The grandfather of Henry C. Greene, who settled on the Loren Smith farm in 1817, was Job Greene, and I am disposed to believe that it was he who took up this lot. He conveyed the lot of forty-five acres to Rufus Crossman, August 13, 1810, and he to Asahel Kent, March 7, 1829. Mr. Crossman's name does not appear in the census of 1814 or 1821, nor do I meet it elsewhere. There are still some stumps of apple trees on the north side of the road just west of the Big Hollow. Mrs. David Daggett, who was a daughter of Henry C. Greene, has a very faint recollection of there being a log house there and of being told that her father stopped there for a time when he first came in. Mrs. Harriet (Abbott) Adsit, born across the road in 1820, has no recollection of even seeing the ruins of or of hearing of a log cabin at this place. However, I have a notion that Job Greene built his cabin there. He had dealings with Mr. Hopkins in 1807, and is put down as a freeholder that year.

Elisha Risdon, who married Amanda, daughter of Reuben Post, moved over from the Potsdam road to the farm just west of the Big Hollow in 1824 or 1825. His brother-in-law, Samuel B. Abbott, lived there in a log house on the south side of the road from 1814 to the time of sale to Mr. Risdon. He bought lots sixty-six, sixty-five and a few acres in the northeast corner of sixty-four, on which to build and get to the road. The old maps show that lot sixty-five was first booked to D. Sanford, who I feel sure was Judge Sanford's brother, though he never lived there. Lot sixty-four was booked first to Silas Lamb and one Rockwell. Mr. Risdon was the first to take title to the farm which extended east to the Peck road. Mr. Risdon built a small frame house there in 1829 or 1830, as I learn from the fragment of a letter to his father in Richmond, N. Y., written February 19, 1831. After speaking of his poor health he wrote, viz.:

> I attend to my cattle. I am wintering a horse, a yoke of oxen, eight cows, ten yearlings, six calves. I believe I have mentioned in a former letter that I had built a small frame house, which is much more comfortable and convenient than our old log house.

The only frame house he ever had was on his place on the Turnpike, and this letter is proof that he built it. Inferentially it is also proof that prior to building it he had lived there in a log house.

No one living can recall the old log cabin or even its ruins. He made several additions to the frame house and built several barns just south. On his death it passed to his son, E. Harmon, who lived there a few years when he moved to the Asahel Kent place in the fork of the roads, where he continued till 1870, when he went to Webster City, Ia. His sister Mary, widow of A. H. Chittenden, lived on the old place some years following 1860. The house and all the barns were taken down some twenty years ago. The ruins of the cellar and old fireplace over the wall just back of the dooryard trees are plain to be seen.

Asahel Kent bought and built on the point made by the junction of the Sanford road with the Turnpike in about 1814. He was a brother of Artemus in the village and of Moses a little west on the Sanford road. He married for his second wife Mrs. Charlotte Sheals, the mother of John and William Sheals, Mrs. Harmon Risdon, Mrs. Stephen Wescott and Mrs. Porter Robinson. His farm was the hundred acres on the north side of the road first taken up by David French to which he, Kent, got title January 30, 1814 and forty-five acres of Job Greene. The house and its additions finally reached nearly across the point to the Sanford road. Mr. E. Harmon Risdon moved over there under an agreement to care for him and have the farm, which he did. Mr. Risdon sold the farm in 1870 to Mr. V. A. Chittenden, and he to George Smith. It is now held by Royal Smith, his son.

Mr. Risdon was the first to take title to the farm which extended east to the Park road. Mr. Risdon built a small frame house there in 1829 or 1830, as I learn from the fragment of a letter to his father in Richmond, N. Y., written February 19, 1831. After speaking of his poor health he wrote, viz.:

Westerly Part of Turnpike.

I have found it impossible to learn the first settlers of many of the farms with certainty, along the west part of the Turnpike. The maps of the Short Tract do not in many cases give the same name as owner as do the records at the county clerk's office, from which fact it is apparent that names of settlers were placed on the map who did not succeed in becoming owners. There are many vacant old houses or rather holes in the ground where once were homes along the roadside, due no doubt largely to the great deterioration of the soil, some of which has become a desolate waste. I get a good part of the history of this road from John A. Harran and Mr. and Mrs. Fullom M. Corwin.

Henry C. Greene, a brother of Mrs. Judge Sanford, took up the front part of what are known as the Loren and George Smith farms on the south side of the road next west of the Elisha Risdon farm and also all of the tract between the Sanford road and Turnpike west to the Joel Peck farm, excepting one acre and a half, the very point of such tract which was taken by Asahel Kent. He had in all one hundred and sixty-three acres, and he took title in 1817. His first home was a log house which he built. He later built the present house or the main upright part. His wife "put out" two sticks in the yard which took root and became great poplar trees. He deeded the west part of that between the two roads to Stephen R. Witherell, excepting six acres in the southwest corner which went to Mr. —— Peck. On May 8, 1832, he conveyed the two Smith farms and what lay between the two roads north of them to Hosea Brooks, father of Erasmus D., late of Potsdam. Mr. Brooks sold to Josiah Smith in about 1833, though I notice he deeded to Darius E. Kent in 1841. However, Mr. Smith held it and finally owned it. On his death his son Loren took the west part of the farm and buildings where he has ever since lived, and his son George took the east part where he built and lived till his death. Meribah, daughter of Mr. Greene, who became Mrs. David Daggett, born in 1815, is living with her daughter, Mrs. Vance in Potsdam, and is a bright and kindly old lady indeed.

Stephen R. Witherell, as already stated, took the next farm west, buying that part of the farm on the north side of the road, where were his buildings, from Mr. Greene. The farm has been in his family ever since, though rented for some years, and is now owned by his son Edwin. The next habitation was a little west on the south side of the road in the hollow near the brook, all trace of which is long since gone. I do not learn who lived there.

Julius Peck took the lot next west of Mr. Witherell on north side, where he built a sawmill which was in use for some years. He died some forty years ago. His widow married a Julius Peck, who is now an old man and blind. The old mill has gone sadly into decay.

The Old Red Schoolhouse.

The old red schoolhouse stood and stands just across the brook, a few rods west and on the north side. It was built, as I learn from the diary, in the spring of 1848 by Lyman Page of Nicholville. For many years it had a good attendance, with often a select school in the fall. Religious services were often held there also. The first schoolhouse, according to the best information I get, was of log and stood a little west and on the south side of the road, at or near the top of the hill. Mrs. Lucetta (Abbott) Peck of Potsdam taught school there, but cannot say further than that it was a log building. A slab seat or bench was against the wall on three sides of the room, sawed side up, with a slab, sawed side up, for a desk. Mrs. Edna Crosley attended there when a child and gives me these particulars. Religious services were held in this old schoolhouse more or less for years.

Isaac Snell took up the tract across the road from the schoolhouse, with his house a little back from the road. The farm passed to his son Milton, and is now owned by J. K. Rhoades. He was a blacksmith and had his shop on the road opposite the schoolhouse, near the brook, with a frame outside for lifting oxen for shoeing.

Ebenezer Squire had a log cabin just west of the schoolhouse on the north side. Reuben Peck lived there after him and also Asa Moore, who lost his leg. Whether Mr. Squire was the first I cannot say. Nothing is left of the habitation now.

SIMEON YOUNG lived a little west on the south side in a log cabin. He was followed by Porter Pierce and he by Asa Murray.

ALBERT S. HARRAN took the next tract west on south side in 1834, where he built a log house and later a frame one. It passed to his son John A., and from him to Arthur Sampier, who now owns it. John A. Harran some thirty years ago bought the Hopkins farm on the south side of the road in Hopkinton village. He was a large, intelligent man and in every way a good neighbor and citizen. He suddenly died in his home in the summer of 1902.

DAVID FISK had a log house across the road from Mr. Harran. George Wilkinson, who was a tailor, lived there after Mr. Fisk. His daughter Hannah married Sumner Sweet of Nicholville. His other children were Martha, who married Mr. Alonzo Rhoades; William of Nicholville, and George, who was lame and died; Mary, who married Porter Pierce; Harriet, brought up by Dr. Sprague, married a Mr. Williams of Vermont. Mr. Harran bought the farm.

JOHN LEACH, father of David, took a tract in 1835 next west of Mr. Harran on south side, where he had a log house, all trace of which has gone.

SAMUEL CLARK had a log house on the north side and a little west of John Leach. The Naylor family lived there after Mr. Clark, though Mr. Naylor only came now and then. They were followed by Rufus Greene, who, I learn from the records, took title. He had a large family of bright children. They were, so far as I learn, William, Ira, Jane, who married Darius E. Kent; Mary, who married John Leach, Jr.; Robert and Melvin. David Leach acquired the farm and lived there till his recent death. It is now held by his widow, with Carlos Colton in charge.

RUFUS GREENE came from ——, Vt., and took the tract next west of John Leach on the south side. His wife was Jane Wood, and they had nine children: viz., Pliny, who died in California; Jane, who married Darius E. Kent in 1842; Melville, who died at Racine, Wis.; William, Lucius, Ira, who died in Missouri; Charles, who died in California; Mary, who married John Leach and now lives at Havana, N. D.; and Robert, who died at Racine, Wis. All are dead except Mary. William S. Howe bought it in 1848. He lived for a time in a log house. It was so old and cold that he spent several winters in the house in Hopkinton village which he had first bought. After a time he built the present buildings which stand back from the road. He sold out some thirty-five years ago when he built a brick residence in Parishville village where he now resides. His children were and are Daniel, of Wichita, Kan.; and Ella (Mrs. P. H. Smith), of Brooklyn, N. Y. Nelson Gardner and Jeff Rowell have held it since.

Betsy Wood

JESSE MOON took the tract next west on south side. He sold to John Smith, who acquired the first title. It passed to his son Josiah, and is now held by John Ramo. Mr. Moon and Nanthaniel Baldwin built a sawmill on the rear end of the farm, which was run for some years with indifferent success owing to a shortage of water.

LEWIS RICHARDSON had a log house on the north side, a little west of Mr. Smith. David Leach lived there at first before buying the place next east. Nothing remains to denote its once existence, and the land about is cheerless indeed.

BARNEY MOON had a log house on the south side, just over the "Pinnacle," which the rise of ground at this point was called. I see that D. E. Kent got the first title. He sold to John Cutler, who built the present frame house. In digging his well he had to go down fifty-two feet to reach water. His children were, so far as I learn, Emma (Mrs. John A. Harran of Hopkinton), Marilla (Mrs. Roswell Andrews), Silas, deceased, and Harlon of ——. The place is now held by Silas Rockwood.

WILLIAM G. RICHARDSON took title to seventy-nine acres across the road which is now pretty nearly a sand waste. He died there and the buildings have all gone.

WILLARD SMITH took the place west of Mr. Cutler and of the road leading south. Amasa Hurlbut took the first title to it. George Kimball also lived on it for a time, when Dyer Hazen bought it years ago and now holds it.

Joseph Brownell took a contract to the tract across the road in 1827. His cabin stood near the brook. I learn from the diary of February 21, 1837, that Mr. Brownell sold to Mr. Wing, and he to Jacob R. Norris, and he to John Moffit. Mr. Norris married Mrs. Rhoda Wing and went to Ohio, where he died. Mr. Moffit was considerable of a preacher and belonged to the sect called Christians. Nothing is left of the old home.

E—— N. Hobabt was the first to take a contract of what for sixty years has been known as the Hazen farm. I feel sure that Deacon Abiel M. Hobart lived there also, though I do not know what he was to him. He sold out to Jehiel Austin, a Methodist minister, who took the first title to the farm lying on both sides of the road. The diary speaks of Mr. Austin paying on contract taken out by Mr. Hobart. Mr. Austin built the present stone house in 1847 or 1848. He sold the place to Jedediah Hazen. On his death his son Owen held it for some years. It is now held by his son-in-law, John Conlin.

Schoolhouse in Hazen District.

In 1850 and prior and later a frame schoolhouse stood in the corner made by the road leading north and on the east side of that road. I can remember of going to school there when quite young, and of how coarse, rough and tyrannical were some of the boys a little older than myself. They frequently stole my dinner and would eat it, or a good part of it, in my presence, and then jeer and laugh at my tears and bitterness. And yet some people maintain that we come into the world divine and good, and that all our meanness and deviltry are acquired. There has been no school there in many years and the building long since disappeared.

Digging for Gold under a Spell.

Somewhere about 1850 some half dozen men in this neighborhood somehow got it into their heads that there was a large quantity of gold or silver, I forget which, buried a few rods down and on the east side of this road leading north. They met there at divers times and faithfully and patiently dug for it in that stony soil. They had the delusion that if any one should speak after they had begun and while digging, that the treasure would vanish and all their hopes be blasted. My father, happening by one day while they were at work, and knowing the solemn injunction under which they labored, and looking upon it as ridiculous, determined to break the spell by making one of them speak. He sat in the buggy and watched them digging just over the road fence for a moment when, calling one of them by name, he said, "Your wife wants to know if you are coming home to dinner." Forgetting himself, he replied, "Yes, right away." At this all the men with sad and solemn mien shouldered their tools and left for their homes. Father guyed and laughed at them, as only he could do it, but they heeded him not. It was mighty serious business with them. Isn't it strange and singular what delusions possess us every now and then, nineteen hundred years after Christ's coming? Somehow the human mind seems capable of, or should I say prone to, strange and even wild hallucinations.

Lemuel Lewis built a log cabin on the north side in the hollow near the old mill pond. Many others occupied it as tenants, among them a Mr. Frank Lashua. It stood till 1870 or thereabouts. The gate was here leading to the sawmill a little back and a few rods down the brook. The mill was built by Judge Sanford in about 1848 and run until 1860 or a little later. His son Jonah bought it and the land about and run the mill to a very limited extent.

An Experience with an Unbound Load of Lumber.

I can remember going there to get some lumber when a small boy with quite a spirited team. I am sure it was in 1861, which would make me fourteen past. My brother Silas was my assistant. The last load was a small one, consisting of boards, plank and scantling, and as a shower came up we hurried away without binding them, thinking they would ride all right. They did for the first half of the distance home, as the road was sandy, keeping the tugs taut and the horses forward and away from the lumber. On getting down to the Gideon S. Abbott place (now Orman Beecher) the road became harder and the decline greater. In holding the horses back the off one frisked greatly and I saw at once road in Hopkinton village. He was a large, intelligent man and in every way a good neighbor and citizen. He suddenly died in his home in the summer of 1902.

"Early History of the Town of Hopkinton" by Carleton E. Sanford (The Bartlett Press, Boston 1903)

David Fisk had a log house across the road from Mr. Harran. George Wilkinson, who was a tailor, lived there after Mr. Fisk. His daughter Hannah married Sumner Sweet of Nicholville. His other children were Martha, who married Mr. Alonzo Rhoades; William of Nicholville, and George, who was lame and died; Mary, who married Porter Pierce; Harriet, brought up by Dr. Sprague, married a Mr. Williams of Vermont. Mr. Harran bought the farm.

John Leach, father of David, took a tract in 1835 next west of Mr. Harran on south side, where he had a log house, all trace of which has gone.

Samuel Clark had a log house on the north side and a little west of John Leach. The Naylor family lived there after Mr. Clark, though Mr. Naylor only came nowand then. They were followed by Rufus Greene, who, I learn from the records, took title. He had a large family of bright children. They were, so far as I learn, William, Ira, Jane, who married Darius E. Kent; Mary, who married John Leach, Jr.; Robert and Melvin. David Leach acquired the farm and lived there till his recent death. It is now held by his widow, with Carlos Colton in charge.

Rufus Greene came from ——, Vt., and took the tract next west of John Leach on the south side. His wife was Jane Wood, and they had nine children: viz., Pliny, who died in California; Jane, who married Darius E. Kent in 1842; Melville, who died at Racine, Wis.; William, Lucius,

(Greene)

Ira, who died in Missouri; Charles, who died in California; Mary, who married John Leach and now lives at Havana, N. D.; and Robert, who died at Racine, Wis. All are dead except Mary. William S. Howe bought it in 1848. He lived for a time in a log house. It was so old and cold that he spent several winters in the house in Hopkinton village which he had first bought. After a time he built the present buildings which stand back from the road. He sold out some thirty-five years ago when he built a brick residence in Parishville village where he now resides. His children were and are Daniel, of Wichita, Kan.; and Ella (Mrs. P. H.Smith), of Brooklyn, N. Y. Nelson Gardner and Jeff Rowell have held it since.

Jesse Moon took the tract next west on south side. He sold to John Smith, who acquired the first title. It passed to his son Josiah, and is now held by John Ramo. Mr. Moon and Nanthaniel Baldwin built a sawmill on the rear end of the farm, which was run for some years with indifferent success owing to a shortage of water.

Lewis Richardson had a log house on the north side, a little west of Mr. Smith. David Leach lived there at first before buying the place next east. Nothing remains to

Son, David Leach, born 1816, Vermont according to death record

According to 1900 census, John Crum Leach's father was born in New Hampshire

David Leach died 17 April 1900, age 83 years, 7 months, 16 days

Where was Alpa M. H. (Buck) KING MORGAN in 1860 & 1870?

Alpa married David Morgan in 1851 in Lawrence, MA. David Morgan died 23 February 1878 at age 81 years, 1 month, 11 days. He was married at the time of his death in 1878. He was born in Beverley, MA, and he died in Andover, MA.

A brief biography of Samuel Ashley King gave his mother's state of death as New Hampshire.

Who were James W. Jones parents?

1880 census gave his b.p. as MO, his father & mother's b.p. as Wales?

James W. Jones died in Chicago on 22 Nov 1905, age 58 years, 8 months, 11 days.

Lived in Illinois for 40 years; occupation, railroad engineer.

Brother, Alfred Carter Jones died at age 49 years on 21 March 1908.

Death certificate gave his parent's state of birth as Virginia; should be taken with a grain of salt;

Carter Jones buried in Arlington. Burial for James given as Ringwood, IL, first place of burial was crossed and I was unable to read it.

Carter's state of birth was given as Mississippi.

NEED 1900 Census, Chicago, Cook Co., IL, for James W. Jones.

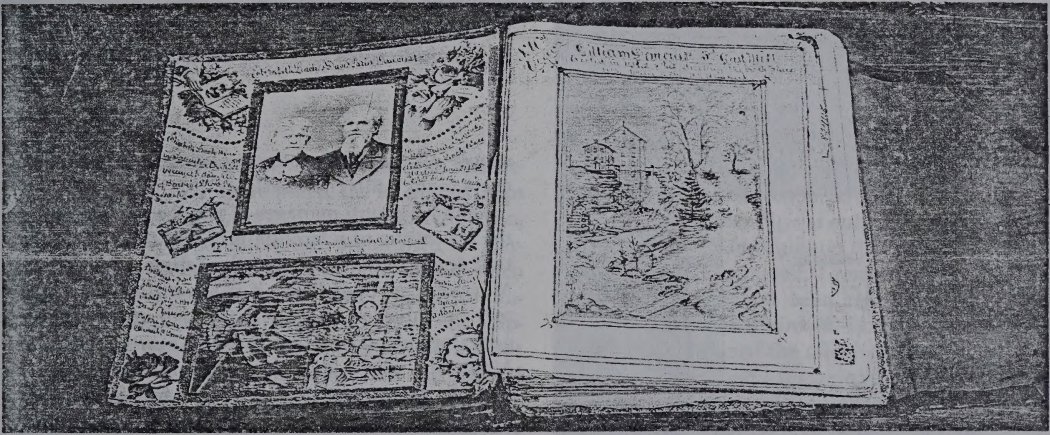
He came over with his w., 2 ch. and 3 servants (incl. He left there in 1650 and liv. for a time in Boston, but by Mar. 1650-1 had come to Maine, obtained a large gr. on Little Newichawannock River and began the erection of the sawmills known as Great Works. Later in 1651 he went to England and on his return was charged with speaking against the govt., but, as the words were spoken 'in the midst of the sea', the court had no jurisdiction. As Gov. Alderne) in 1653, and, the venture proving a failure, he mortgaged his remaining ¼ on 14 Feb. 1655-6 to secure his appearance in London to render an acct. within 18 mo. Leaving Thos. Broughton as his attorney, he reached England 1 Sept. 1657 and remained there until May 1658 when he sailed for Barbadoes with a 2d w., 'a gentlewoman whom a long time had waited for me.' On 16 Jan. 1659-60 he was in the sugar-refining business, but intended to journey to New England in the spring. He did so, and d. soon after. Adm. was gr. on his est. to Rev. Our family trees have roots in Utah's mountain vaults

The Mormon church gathers genealogical data so extensive that even a non-Mormon writer is able to trace his long-lost family ties



The "Leach Family Memorial Book," circa 1895, is part of the library's special collection.

An uninformed visitor might guess we are in one of the halls of the Mountain King—a recreation chamber, possibly, furnished with a shallow swimming pool for off-duty gnomes. But the reality is only a little less marvelous: this is the nethermost extremity of the Granite Mountain Records Vault, a man-made catacomb containing a trove perhaps more valuable than diamonds or gold. At least that is the view of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, better known as the Mormons, who are collecting here copies of all the genealogical data on the human race before 1900 that the limits of time and budget permit.

This final tunnel dead-ends at a point 600 horizontal feet and 700 vertical feet inside a Utah mountain composed of a single chunk of igneous rock. My senses are just beginning to register these claustrophobic coordinates. Behind us, the vaults are sheathed in layers of galvanized steel and concrete grout; they look no more subterranean than a Quonset hut. But in this cul-de-sac, the unadulterated granite closes in, the drill holes for dynamite show plainly in gouged walls, the air reeks of stone.

Given the cryptlike atmosphere, the gnomes' swimming pool is a welcome grace note, even if it is actually a reservoir tapping underground springs at the mountain's core. "Our manna from heaven," says Herbert J. White II. "There's enough water in here to supply all our film-processing needs every day. And every night it fills right back up."

More than a million rolls of filmed records are stored in drawers of granite-encased vault.

White is group manager of the Records Vault and the processing of microfilm is one of the most important operations he oversees. For religious reasons, the Mormon church—LDS as it is known in Utah—sponsors an ambitious effort to gather the world's existing genealogical information into the bowels of Granite Mountain, where it will remain safe throughout the ages. In the United States and 40 foreign countries including China, some 100 agents make arrangements with local archivists and government record keepers to film all sorts of vital statistics—birth, marriage, death certificates, censuses, church rolls, family histories. These flow to the mountain in an unending stream. As many as 65,000 hundred-foot reels of microfilm are being developed, filed or copied here at any given moment.

To handle such volume, Granite Mountain contains one of the most sophisticated microfilming operations in the nation. And since the place is usually off-limits to outsiders, Herb enjoys this rare chance to show it off. We have just been trooping through a series of chambers relatively close to the mountain's surface, roofed by a mere 200 feet of granite and lighted, here and there, by gridded sunlight shining through heavy portals that overlook a narrow mountain valley. All around us, accompanied by his baritone commentary, reams of microfilm whir and hum through the M-70 processors, Vesicular processors, Diazo processors, and—my favorite—the recovery processor, a Rube Goldberg contraption with bright blue pipes that salvages silver crystals from the developing system. While we watch, the microfilm strips are spliced, developed, washed, "fixed," washed again, squeegeed, dried, cut, relentlessly scrutinized for clarity by intent young Mormons in blue smocks, then catalogued and rechecked some more. When this procedure is complete, positive prints survive for shipment to the Genealogical Library in downtown Salt Lake City, often to the donor who made the original records available, and to 360 LDS branch libraries.

But it is the deposition of the microfilm negative that earns the Records Vault its name. Deep within the mountain, three steel doors with a collective weight of 32 tons give access to six vaults, each large enough to accommodate a mature guardian dragon if there were any need for one. In them, genealogical films can be stored indefinitely at just the right temperature and humidity. The area is designed to withstand any act of God or Man this side of the millennium, nuclear holocausts included—a powerful bargaining point when LDS negotiators ask the world's record keepers to unlock their files.

I must admit that when Herb White first introduced me to these impervious vaults, I was less impressed than I should have been. Three of them were empty except for stacks of processing equipment. At the far end of a fourth was a lost-looking quartz-tube strain meter set up by geophysicists from the University of Utah. (The device is documenting strain changes caused by regional deformation of the Earth's crust.) But even the two vaults that did contain microfilm were not very exciting to look at, just long geometric processions of monotonous gray metal drawers (p. 86).

It was an unfair reaction, of course. What had I expected? Nevertheless, it was only after Herb had been called away for a few minutes that my attitude began to change. Left to myself, I reran the mind-boggling statistics that he had been reeling off. This time around, they began to sink in. Each of those thousands of drawers contained the microfilm equivalent of 100 to 200 large volumes. In the one-and-one-half rooms filled so far, there were more than 1.2 million rolls of microfilm. And on each of those rolls there may be thousands of names. (The collection is necessarily ecumenical since, from a Biblical perspective, Mormons and non-Mormons alike share a common ancestry. Equally important to the LDS is that future converts have access to their ancestral files.) Excepting Mormons and others who voluntarily submit more recent information, most of these names belonged to the dead since laws of privacy and LDS policy discourage the collection of records less than 90 or 100 years old.

What hit me then was the realization that most of these names belonged to people who weren't just dead; they were utterly forgotten. In most cases, in this world at least, everything that was personally theirs—their private histories, the rooms where they lived, the memory of them—had been erased after a generation or two. Everything except the names. The names, not "the enduring bone," were all that was left. In a not-too-fanciful sense, these vaults were a cemetery, more exactly a morgue, containing the last remains of perhaps two billion people.

This somewhat morbid perception was followed by another: it occurred to me that among the records—"mortal remains"—stored in those gun-gray cabinets were, very likely, those of my own mother. I should explain that on the maternal side, my family history is an almost total blank. My mother died when I was five years old. The only memory that I have of her is a mental film clip in which my father, presumably in a frolicsome mood, slips up behind her, grips her waist and lifts her up as she laughs and scolds.

My older siblings had provided more information. My mother and her three sisters had been orphaned, circa 1905. They had been variously assigned to the care of orphanages or my maternal grandmother's relatives. Later, when my father met and fell in love with my mother, her lack of "background" had inspired his conservative family to bitterly oppose the match. However, they became reconciled to my mother when she proved to be not only a goodly spouse but, in the parlance of the time, a "refined" lady as well. In our Brooklyn neighborhood—a comfortable place of brownstone stoops and shady avenues not yet scarred by crime and slovenliness—she was a much-admired matriarch. Yet my sister, who adored her, remembered the occasional bouts of melancholy during which she took long solitary walks.

My sister also remembered one bit of family history that my boyhood self found romantically appealing: our mother had mentioned more than once that her father, Edward Radford, was born into a Boston Brahmin family. But when he married my grandmother, a poor Irish girl named Minnie Dugan, he was disowned. My mother and her sisters were therefore the products of a love match. That, plus the early demise of their parents, had lent to all their lives a certain star-crossed glamour.

Concerning specific details, however, my mother had been reticent. When she died she apparently left behind very little data—names, dates, places—that might have shed light on her early life. My father had outlived her by only a few months. My guardians, drawn from his kindred, had considered her family background an uninviting subject and had discouraged the visits of her sisters, my aunts. Now all of that parental generation were dead and my sister as well. Within the family, only one document concerning my mother survived: her death certificate, in my brother's possession. It stated that Mae Radford Schueler had died in 1935 at the age of 46. The birthplaces of her father, Edward Radford, and her mother, Minnie Dugan, were listed, not very helpfully, as the United States and Ireland. The only promising clue was that my mother had been born in Brooklyn. Here, at least, was a specific locale. But when my brother contacted the public records office, he was told that laws of privacy applied even to the children of the deceased. My mother's history, like the tunnel behind the vaults, seemed to have reached a dead end.

Which brings us back to Granite Mountain. I had become keenly aware that the essential facts concerning my mother and her antecedents probably were buried in these vaults; and that if they were not recovered by me and my generation, almost certainly they would be lost forever. Or at least until the millennium. With some excitement, I began to look forward to my next day at the Genealogical Library.

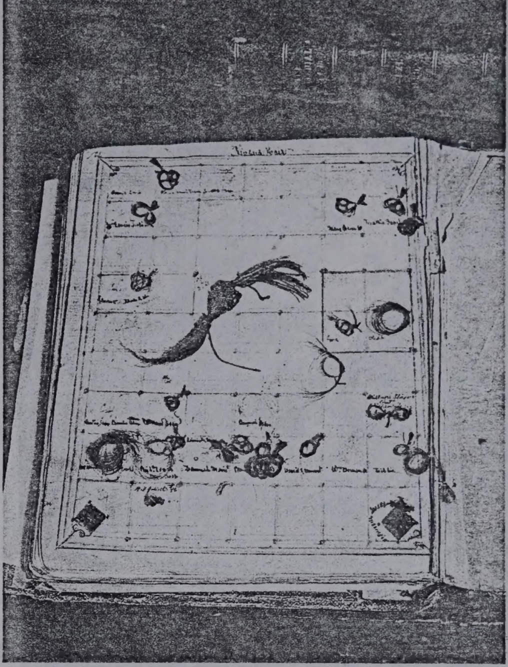
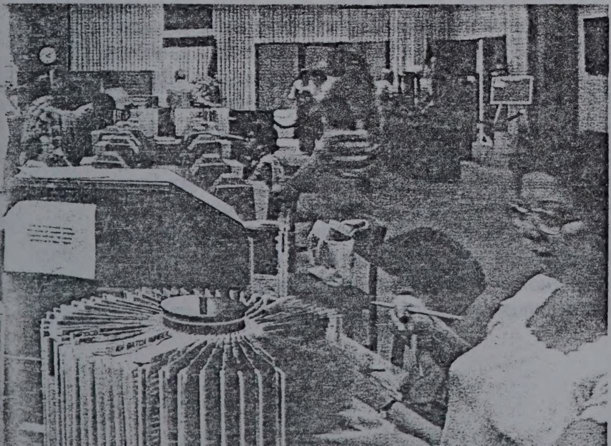
It is late afternoon when we say good-bye to amiable Herb White in the bunkerlike building that gives access to Granite Mountain and head down Little Cottonwood Canyon en route to Salt Lake City. I say "we" because, though Herb had been tour guide in the vault, it is Tom Daniels, public relations man for the Library, who will open his department's many doors. During the drive through Salt Lake valley, one-time breadbasket of Mormon pioneers, now the promised land of real estate developers, Tom tells me why Mormons consider genealogy to be so important: "We believe the family unit is designed by God to be eternal. For Mormons, especially for those married in Temple, the marriage ceremony 'seals' that couple and their children forever—predicated, of course, on the righteousness of individual family members." But the sealing—or eternal bonding—process, he explains, can also "work backward" in time. It is possible for the living family to seal themselves by "proxy ordinances for the dead" with as many of their ancestors as they can positively identify. Those ancestors now abide in a "spirit world." There, or after the Second Coming, they will have the opportunity to "accept the gospel of Jesus Christ" and in so doing be released from "spirit prison" and made eligible for "exaltation at the final judgment at the end of the millennium."

Whether one accepts that doctrine or not, the idea of an eternal family, incorporating the living and the dead, is a pretty one, especially appealing in an age when families have trouble sticking together until the kids are out of school, much less until death doth them part. My favorite expression of the concept comes from Royden G. Derrick, executive director of the Genealogical Department and a very high-ranking official in the Mormon hierarchy. Like other Elders of the Church, he had been called to his present "function" from a successful "life-venture," the presidency of a steel company which he founded. One of the first things he showed me was the bound volume of his family's "pedigree charts." Fondly, he pointed to the name of a great-great-grandfather. "We looked for him for years," he said, as though this particular ancestor had been mischievously truant. "Then, a while back, a girl from the office was going to England, so we arranged for her to do some research for the family. One day she was in Keynsham, looking through the records, when this total stranger asked her what she was doing. She told him, and right away he pointed to a dusty box in a corner—and there was the record of my third grandfather that she'd been searching for! So you see, it gets really exciting."



In Leach family's unusual "Memorial Book" (p. 87) are fastened hair samples as well as photographs.

some 3,000 Mormons and non-Mormons, like those below, daily crowd the library in Salt Lake City.



Elder Derrick had also written his own personal history for the benefit of his descendants. I asked him if there were a religious significance in doing that. "Oh, yes," he beamed, "my personal history will assist my children in turning their hearts to me. Just as when I sit down to do my fathers' history, my heart is turning toward them." It is the "heart's turning," a paraphrase from the last line of the Old Testament, that appeals to me.

The library is located in the west wing of the LDS office building on North Temple Street. It is a fairly new facility, a far cry from the wood-stove attic that was the first home of the Genealogical Library when it was organized in 1894 by the then head of the Mormon church—Wilford Woodruff. Yet the library is already outgrowing the available space, and new quarters are being built a block away. All libraries should look so busy. About 3,000 ancestor hunters march through the doors on an average day. Two major catalysts account for the current boom. One is Alex Haley's Roots, which has inspired hordes of Americans—almost all of them, ironically, white—to start climbing their family trees. (Haley has said that had he known about the library when he was researching his book, he would have saved himself two years' work.) The other great incentive is a religious one. In recent years, the Mormon church has urged its members to try to search out at least four generations of their ancestry—and more, if possible—the idea being to build a computerized "ancestral file" of Mormon genealogies (as well as any others that non-Mormons care to submit).

There are how-to-do-it booklets and a large staff to help newcomers get started with their searches. But many tree climbers are old hands at the game. They know where to look for the relevant records, and how to use the 500 microfilm and microfiche readers. As Elder Derrick says, the search can get "really exciting." Patrons have been known to run down the aisles shouting "I've found him! I've found him!" And recently an overwrought lady kicked the shins of a worker who wouldn't surrender a book she needed.

About two-thirds of the library users are Mormons. There is, for example, Mrs. Barbara McGee, plumply middle aged, who has been tracing her genealogy on-and-off for 30 years. Like most Mormons I talk to, she admits her zeal is not purely religious. "It's a compelling spirit. You might leave it alone for a while, only it won't leave you alone. You don't only go into names and places. You start wondering why people moved from place to place. You do a lot of supposing."

Then there is Rick Royer of Ogden, a pleasant young fellow with an aw-shucks smile. "At this point," he says, "I'm doing it for fun." He is proud of one paternal grandfather who "went from ditch digger to vice president of Washington Water Power." And now he wants to find "who else in my background might inspire me to do a little better." Not everyone meets the bill. Royer has discovered, with a certain relish, that "some of these people were pretty rotten guys." But never mind; in their cautionary ways, they make useful models, too.

The non-Mormons are apt to come from anywhere. Helen Rietheimer is a genteel senior citizen ("My age is unavailable"), who has moved recently to Salt Lake City from Philadelphia. She is a dedicated professional who searches out other people's genealogies "when they've worn out their own efforts." She has traced her own line back to the sixth-century Saxon ruler, Cerdic, but she takes pains not to make much of that: "He was probably just another of those ignorant early kings." She flashes a confidential smile. "There's a certain amount of fun in all this, you know, but when you start being snobbish about it, well. . . ."

Actually, though, no one I meet in the library seems overly concerned about finding European blue bloods or American Brahmins roosting in their family trees. Consider Carl and Florence Backus, who introduced themselves as a retired couple from San Benito, Texas. According to a tradition in Mrs. Backus' family, her great-great-grandfather was the natural son of Meriwether Lewis and the Indian girl Sacajawea, who guided the Lewis and Clark expedition across the Rockies and to the West in the early 1800s. "We're not having too much luck proving it," she sighs. "The courthouses we needed in Arkansas and Missouri have burned down, so we're trying here."

Why, I ask, does it matter so much? "Curiosity," says Carl Backus. "We want to prove or disprove some family rumors. But it's history too, the kind you never learn in history books. Did you know that fathers used to place their sons in farms and factories when they were eight or ten years old? For economic reasons. The sons would work for ten years for nothing, then get a horse, a saddle and a suit."

Glenn Davis is in his mid-thirties, olive skinned, a native of Hawaii. His father's family has lived in the islands for at least five traceable generations, but his mother, dead now, was from the mainland. On leave from his job, Davis discovered the library by sheer chance while on a cross-country jaunt. That was a month ago. "I only meant to stay a couple of days," he grins, somewhat self-consciously. "After the first few days, I really started finding things. It makes you want to find more." Now, however, he is stuck. "I've gotten my mother's side back to the mid-19th century. I've got them out of the United States, but I don't know the names of the towns in Prussia and Canada. You got to know the towns." Well, then, I ask, will he finally give up? "Actually," he answers, "I do have one more lead. I figure a few more days." He pauses. "Actually, maybe a couple more weeks." I begin to suspect there is a streak of the gambler in Glenn Davis.

A coded index points the way

It is my turn now. Tom Daniels hands me over to bright, attractive Pat Godfrey, the member of the staff who will put me through my paces. Since I am on assignment, she and a couple of volunteer helpers have done some searching beforehand to see if there is anything to work with. But under Pat's guidance I follow the process from scratch. The point of departure is the U.S. Census of 1900, a vital document not only because it is so comprehensive but because, unlike most censuses, it has an index coded to names and localities. The code is great fun to work; after reducing my mother's maiden name to numbers, and with Brooklyn as the locale, I am eventually able to find the microfilm containing the pertinent census sheet and lines. After cranking the microfilm reader for several suspenseful minutes, watching sheet after sheet of names swirl by, there, suddenly, is the one I am looking for. And there they are! My long-lost maternal grandparents and—more truly lost than I had ever realized—their long-lost family.

There are a couple of minor errors. Most notably, the oldest child is listed as Mary. Judging from the birth date, this has to be Mother, whose name was Mae. But the slip can easily be attributed to my grandmother's brogue or the census taker's inattention. Certainly there can be no doubt that I have the right record. There were not that many Radfords in New York state in 1900, and no others that married a Minnie Dugan from Ireland. The clincher is the last name on the list, Lottie—one of my mother's sisters—who was born just before the turn of the century. (The two younger sisters would have been born after the census was taken, so their names are not listed.)

It is the names that are listed that astonish me. According to the record sheet, my maternal grandparents had a total of nine children (seven by 1900), not four, and one of them, unnamed, already had died. But that still leaves me with three uncles and one aunt whose existences I had never suspected. They were, with my mother, the older children, born in the '80s and early '90s, so they would have been in their teens when my grandparents died early in this century. What had happened to those four? How had they become so scattered that even my mother apparently lost track of them? I remember Mr. Backus' comment about children being "placed" away from home for "economic reasons." For the first time, an awareness of the Dickensian dissolution of my mother's family comes home to me with considerable force.

Under tutelage of library's Pat Godfrey (left), author Schueler practices using microfiche reader.

If the census adds names to my family's history, it also takes something away. It is clear now that the romantic story of my grandfather's Bostonian connection is not true. He was born in Brooklyn and he was a blacksmith—a trade which even the disowned son of a posh family presumably would not take up. So. Someone had been lying, and it was certainly not my sister, who passed the tale along. Which leaves my mother as the likely suspect. According to the census, she would have been in her late teens when her parents died, and surely would have known the truth about their origins.

Of course I am "supposing," as Mrs. McGee would say. But the supposition of that lie affects me powerfully. Not as a lie, of course, but as a dismayingly tender perception of the sort of person my mother was. Poor lady! No wonder she was the neighborhood matriarch, having been born the oldest daughter in a large and impoverished family. And how hard she must have worked at being "refined"—enough so to catch and hold my father's eye against the wishes of his family. How insecure that family must have made her feel. And how natural that in the unshared loneliness of her long walks, she would have dreamed up a wishful fib about her father's background, relaying it to her husband and daughter and, when they were reunited, to her much younger sisters, who wouldn't have remembered their parents any more than I remember mine.

More than anything else, it is the "supposing" of this small poignant lie that now prompts my "heart's turning" not only toward that long-dead woman, but toward all the others, her brothers and sisters lost and found, and the indigent blacksmith and his immigrant wife whose "life-venture" ended so haplessly. Now indeed I begin to understand what everyone has been telling me about the attraction of reconstructing the past. Only I am not so sure the game is altogether fun.

Pat Godfrey, hovering near, suggests that since I have gone this far, the immense resources of the library may provide other clues to my mother's history —my history—if and when I wish to follow them up. Shall I? I honestly don't know. Without the religious impetus, perhaps I have already learned as much as I want to learn. More, really, than I had bargained for.

Still, I remember Mrs. McGee's observation about the search for roots: "You might leave it alone for a while, only it won't leave you alone."

Mae Radford Schueler was enigmatic subject of her son's bittersweetly successful research.

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF LEACH

The name of LEACH or LEECH is believed to have been derived from the occupation of its first bearers as "leeches" or doctors. It is found on ancient English records in the various spellings of Leche, Leeche, Leache, Leiche, Leich, Leesh, Leash, Leetch, Leatch, Leech, and Leach, of which the last two forms are those most generally used in America today.

Families of this name were to be found at early dates in the English Counties of Oxford, York, Lancaster, Cornwall, Devon, Chester, Kent, Lincoln, Surrey, and London, and in various parts of Scotland and Ireland. They were, for the most part, of the landed gentry and yeomanry of Great Britain.

Among the earliest records of the family in England are those of Edmund and William le Leche, of Oxfordshire, before 1273; Robert le Leche of 1307; John le Leche of a slightly later period; and Robertus Leche, of Yorkshire, in the year 1379.

Leach

David Leeche or Leech is reported to have been living at Nantwich, Cheshire, England, about the beginning of the sixteenth century and to have been the father of a son named John, who married a Miss Dawson and was the father by her of John, Elizabeth, Jane, and Winifred. Of these children, John married Margery Starky and had a son named John, who was the father by his wife, Anne Manwaring, of John, Anne, and Alice.

John Leach of Devonshire about the middle of the sixteenth century was the father of a son Simon, who had issue by his wife, Elizabeth Rowe, of Sir Simon. This Sir Simon was the father in the early seventeenth century by his first wife, Elizabeth Burrough, of Walter and William, and by his second wife, Katherine Turberville, he had further issue of Sir Simon, George, Nicholas, and four daughters.

Another John Leach or Leech was living in Kent County before 1560. He was the father by his wife, a Miss Backerville, of a son Benjamin, who had a cousin Sir Edward Leech, Benjamin was the father by his wife, Katherine Cooke, of Robert Leach of London, who married Joane Milles and probably left numerous issue.

Leach

In the latter half of the sixteenth century one John Leach(e) was living in the County of Cornwall and had issue by his wife, Elizabeth Nappar, of a son named Nicholas, who married Jenophah Hearle. Nicholas had issue in the early seventeenth century of John, Martha, and Nicholas, and possibly of others.

While it is not definitely known in every case from which of the many lines of the family in Great Britain the first emigrants of the name to America were descended, it is generally believed that most, if not all, of the Leaches and Leeches derived from a common ancestor of a remote period.

Probably the first of the name in America was Lawrence Leach, who appears to have come from Devonshire, England, to Massachusetts in 1629. He settled at Salem. By his wife, Elizabeth, he is believed to have been the father of Clement (remained in England), Robert, John, Richard, Margaret, Rachel, James, Giles, and possibly of Ambrose, who was living at Boston in 1648, and of Edmund, who resided at New Haven, Conn., in 1647. The dates for these last two and several of the others, however, are not absolutely certain.

Leach

Of the sons of the immigrant Lawrence, Robert is reported to have resided at Charlestown, Mass., before 1637 and is stated to have been the father of Robert and Samuel, and of numerous daughters; John had issue by his first wife, Sarah Conant, of, besides others, John, Richard, and William; Richard was the father by his wife, Sarah Fuller, of, among others, John and Richard; James settled at Portsmouth, N.H., and was the father of Thomas, James, Zachariah, John, Joseph, and Nathaniel; and Giles resided at Bridgewater, Mass., and had issue by his wife, Ann Nokes, of Samuel, David, John, Ebenezer, Benjamin, and others.

As early as 1680, if not before, Thomas Leach or Leech made his home at New London, Conn., where he left issue by his wife, Abigail Haughton, of a daughter named Sarah. By two later marriages he had further issue of Thomas, Clement, Samuel, Joseph, Richard, Jonathan, and others.

In 1682 Toby or Tobias Leech, son of Toby Leech of Gloucestershire, England, emigrated to Pennsylvania and settled in Philadelphia County. By his wife, Esther Ashmead, he was the father of Toby, Esther, John, Thomas, Isaac, Jacob, and at least two others who probably died young.

Among the first of the name to emigrate to Virginia were John Leech of Accomack County in 1636; Mark Leech of Charles River County in 1639; Captain Charles Leach of Yorke County before 1650, in which year he was joined by Peter and William Leech or Leach, who may possibly have been his sons; Thomas of Lancaster County in 1652; Jenkin of Charles City County in 1653; and Charles Leach of Lancaster County in 1655. None of these men, however, left any definite records of their immediate descendants.

Others of the name are mentioned in the records of the following century, but some of them may have been descended from the earlier lines of the family in America. Among these were John Leach, who is believed to have emigrated from London to Boston about 1749 and to have had issue by his wife, Sarah Coffin, of Thomas, Sarah, Lydia, and possibly others; Joseph Leach of Hampton, N.H., before 1760, who was the father by his wife, Abigail, of Comfort, Molly, John, and Hannah; William Leach of Prince Edward County, Va., before 1773, who later removed to Monroe County and was the father by his wife, Susanna Hughes, of Reuben, John, James, Mary, Matthew, Joshua, Edward, Esom, William, and Elizabeth; and Stephen Leach of New York before 1779, who had issue by his wife, Susannah Smith, of at least one named Nehemiah or Neamiah.

More recent representatives of these and probably of other branches of the family in America have scattered throughout the United States and have contributed as much to the rise and expansion of the nation as their progenitors did to its founding. They have been characterized in general by industry, tenacity of purpose, initiative, courage, and fortitude. Members of the family have been outstanding as educators, writers, clergymen, and public officials.

Among those of the name who fought in the War of the Revolution were Lieutenants Josiah and Simon Leach, Captain Daniel Leach, Lieutenants Joseph and Samuel Leech, and more than sixty others from Massachusetts alone, as well as numerous others from the various states.

William, John, Robert, Simon, Edward, Nicholas, James, Richard, Joseph, Samuel, and Thomas are some of the Christian names most favored by the family for its male progeny.

A few of the many members of the family who have distinguished themselves in America in more recent times are:

Henry Goddard Leach (b. 1880), of Pennsylvania, author and editor.

Howard Seavoy Leach (b. 1887), of Maine, librarian and author.

Hugh Leach (b. 1894), of Virginia, banker.

Raymond Hotchkiss Leach (b. 1883), of Ohio, university president.

George L. Leech (b. 1890), of Pennsylvania, Roman Catholic bishop.

Lewis Harper Leech (b. 1885), of Tennessee, economist and newspaperman.

J. Russell Leech (b. 1888), of Pennsylvania, Congressman and member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

Paul Nicholas Leech (b. 1889), of Ohio, chemist.

One of the most ancient and well representative of the several coats of arms of the English family of Leach or Leech is that described as follows (Burke, General Armory, 1884):

Arms.--"Ermine, on a chief indented gules, three ducal coronets or."

Crest.--"Out of a ducal coronet or, a dexter cubit arm grasping a serpent all proper."

WHY YOU HAVE A FAMILY NAME AND WHAT IT MEANS

Primitive personal names doubtless originated soon after the invention of spoken language, in the dark ages long preceding recorded history. For thousands of years thereafter first or given names were the only designations that men and women bore; and at the dawn of historic times, when the world was less crowded than it is today and every man knew his neighbor, one title of address was sufficient. Only gradually, with the passing centuries and the increasing complexity of civilized society, did a need arise for more specific designations. While the roots of our system of family names may be traced back to early civilized times, actually the hereditary surname as we know it today dates from scarcely more than nine hundred years ago.

A surname is a name added to a baptismal or given name for the purposes of making it more specific and of indicating family relationship or descent. Classified according to origin, most surnames fall into four general groups: 1) those formed from the given name of the sire; 2) those arising from bodily or personal characteristics; 3) those derived from locality or place of residence; and 4) those derived from occupation. It is easier to understand the story of the development of our institution of surnames if these classifications are borne in mind.

As early as Biblical times certain distinguishing appellations were occasionally employed in addition to the given name, as, for instance, Joshua the son of Nun, Azariah the son of Nathan, Judas of Galilee, and Simon the Zealot. In ancient Greece a daughter was named after the father, as Chryseis, daughter of Chryses; and a son's name was often an enlarged form of his father's, as Hieronymus, son of Hiero. The Romans, with the rise of their civilization, met the need for hereditary designations by inventing a complex system whereby every patrician took several names. None of them, however, exactly corresponded to surnames as we know them, for the "clan name", although hereditary, was given also to slaves and other dependents. This system proved to be but a temporary innovation; the overthrow of the Western Empire by barbarian invaders brought about its end and a reversion to the primitive custom of a single name.

The ancient Scandinavians and for the most part the Germans had only individual names, and there were no family names, strictly speaking, among the Celts. But as family and tribal groups grew in size, individual names became inadequate and the need for supplementary designations began to be felt. Among the first employed were such terms as the Hardy, the Sterns, the Dreadful-in-Battle; and the nations of northern Europe soon adopted the practice of adding the father's name to the son's, as Oscar son of Carnuth and Dermid son of Duthno.

True surnames, in the sense of hereditary appellations, date in England from about the year 1000. Largely they were introduced from Normandy, although there are records of Saxon surnames prior to the Norman Conquest. During the reign of Edward the Confessor (1042-1066) there were Saxon tenants in Suffolk bearing such names as Suert Magno, Stigand Soror, Siuward Rufus, and Leuric Hobbesune (Hobson); and the Domesday record of 1085-1086, which exhibits some curious combinations of Saxon forenames with Norman family names, shows surnames in still more general use. By the end of the twelfth century hereditary names had become common in England. But even by 1465 they were not universal. During the reign of Edward V a law was passed to compel certain Irish outlaws to adopt surnames; "They shall take unto them a Surname, either of some Town, or some Colour, as Blacke or Brown, or some Art of Science, as Smyth or Carpenter, or some office, as Cooke or Butler." As late as the beginning of the nineteenth century a similar decree became effective compelling Jews in Germany and Austria to add a German surname to the single names that they had previously used.

As stated above, family names fall into four general classes according to their origin. One of these classes comprises surnames derived from the given name of the father. Such names were formed by adding a prefix or suffix denoting either "son of" or a diminutive. English names terminating in son (or the contraction s), ing, and kin are of this type, as are also the innumerable names prefixed with the Gaelic Mac, the Norman Fitz, the Irish O, or the Welsh ap. Thus the sons of John became Johnsons; the sons of William, Williamsons or Wilsons; the sons of Richard, Richardsons or Richardses; the sons of Neill, MacNeills; the sons of Herbert, FitzHerberts; the sons of Reilly, O'Reillys; and the sons of Thomas ap Thomases (ap has been drop from many names of which it was formerly a part). There are also German, Netherlandish, Scandinavian, and other European surnames of similar formation, such as the Scandinavian names ending in sen.

Another class of surnames, those arising from some bodily or personal characteristic of their first bearer, apparently grew out of what were in the first instance nicknames. Thus Peter the strong became Peter Strong, Roger of small stature became Roger Little or Roger Small, and black-haired William or blond Alfred became William Black or Alfred White. A few examples of names of this type are Long, Short, Hardy, Wise, Good, Gladman, Lover and Youngman.

A third class of family names, and perhaps the largest of all, is that comprising local surnames-names derived from and originally designating the place of residence of the bearer. Such names were employed in France at an early date and were introduced into England by the Normans, many of whom were known by the titles of their estates. The surnames adopted by the nobility were chiefly of this type, being used with the particles de, de la, or del (meaning "of" or "of the"). The Saxon equivalent was the word atte ("at the"), found in such names as John atte Brook, Edmund atte Lane, Godwin atte Brigg, and William Atwood, and Atwater; in other cases the Norman de was substituted; and in still others, such as Wood, Briggs and Lane, the particle was dropped. The surnames of some of the Pilgrim Fathers illustrate place designations. Winthrop, for instance, means "of the friendly village"; Endicott, "an end cottage"; and Bradford, "a broad ford". The suffixes

"ford", "ham", "ley", and "ton", denoting locality, are of frequent occurrence in such English names as Ashford, Bingham, Burley and Norton.

Commencing about the time of Edward the Confessor a fourth class of surnames arose -- names derived from occupation. The earliest of these seem to have been official names, such as Bishop, Mayor, Alderman, Reeve, Sheriff, Chamberlain, Chancellor, Chaplain, Deacon, Latimer (interpreter), Marshall, Sumner (summoner), and Parker (parkkeeper). Trade and craft names, although of the same general type, were a slightly later development. Currier was a dresser of skins, Webster a weaver, Wainwright a wagonbuilder, and Baxter a baker. Such names as Smith, Taylor, Barber, Shepherd, Carter, Mason, and Miller are self-explanatory.

Some surnames of today which seem to defy classification or explanation are corruptions of ancient forms that have become disguised almost beyond recognition. For instance, Troublefield was originally Tuberville, Wrinch was Renshaw, Diggles was Douglas, Sinnocks and Snooks were Sevenoaks, Barrowcliff and Berrycloth were Barraclough, and Strawbridge was Stourbridge. Such corruptions of family names, resulting from ignorance of spelling, variations in pronunciation, or merely from the preference of the bearer, tend to baffle both the genealogist and the etymologist. Shakespeare's name is found in some twenty-seven different forms, and the majority of English and Anglo-American surnames have, in their history, appeared in four to a dozen or more variant spellings.

In the United States a greater variety of family names exists than anywhere else in the world. Surnames in every race and nation are represented. While a substantial number are of English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, and Western European origin, brought to this country by scions of families that had borne these names for generations prior to immigration, many others have come from Central and Southern Europe and the Slavic countries, where the use of surnames is generally a more recently established practice. Some families had no fixed surname until after their arrival in America; and in other cases emigrants from Continental Europe or their descendants have translated or otherwise modified their names. These factors contribute to the difficulties encountered by students of etymology and family history.

Those Americans who possess old and honored names -- who trace their surnames back to sturdy immigrant ancestors, or beyond, across the seas and into the mists of antiquity--may be rightfully proud of their heritage. While the name, in its origin, may seem ingenious, humble, surprising, or matter-of-fact, its significance today lies not in a literal interpretation of its initial meaning but in the many things that have happened to it since it first came into use. In the beginning it was only a label to distinguish one John from his neighbor John who lived across the field. But soon it established itself as part of the bearer's individuality; and as it passed to his children, his children's children, and their children, it became the symbol not of one man but of a family and all that the family stood for. Handed down from generation to generation, the surname grew inseparably associated with the achievement, the tradition, and the prestige of the family. Like the coat of arms--that vivid symbolization of the name which warrior ancestors bore in battle--the name itself has become a badge of family honor. It has become the "good name" to be proud of and to protect as one's most treasured possession.

The Brownell Cemetery

Here is another ghost cemetery. This one is located in this end of the Sterling section, across from the David Hogle home, later the Guy Planty hunting camp, now owned by Ernest LaBaff, this side of Hogle Hill, once called the Brownell and Miller hill. It is located back from the road a distance and was back of the original log cabin home of John Brownell. When the new home was built it was located to one side of the original one. ~~This was originally the Stark lot~~. ~~Herb. St. Dennis once had a camp in this section~~.

This property was sold by Guy Planty to Charles Armstrong Sr., and then to Walter Bloss, and from him to Fiacco of the Fiacco Tavern on the Canton road, present owner.

Bessie Planty, wife of Guy Planty, became the owner of this property as she was brought up by her grandmother who married John Brownell Jr. She camee from Canada with her grandmother and lived here with her and her step-father. Mrs. Planty's mother died when she was 5 mo. old. She lived at Ansu, Canada, near Morrisburg. Her grandmother, Celestia Rhyder or (Rider) married Allen Farrell, after he died she married John Brownell Jr. He had came here when a small boy. They are buried in Hillcrest Cemetery.

John Brownell Sr. and his wife are buried here, back of the site of the old log cabin. There is a brother of John Brownell Jr. buried here, dying as a young lad, also a daughter, a little girl who died as a result of a bee sting. There is one other grave here, for a man by the name of Lonas. A sister of John Brownell Jr., married John Lonas. This could have been John Lonas's parents.

Mr. W. O. Daniels mother, Elsie Brownell Daniels was a sister of John Brownell Jr. Her husbands name was Ora Daniels. These graves of John Brownell Sr. and his wife are those of Mr. Daniels grandparents. These graves once had wooden markers.

ton and other cities.

The principal event of the day was a horse race in which the following gentlemen took prizes: First prize, $25.00, won by Hans Tobiassen, Kenosha; second prize, $15.00, Chr. Hansen, Kenosha; third prize $10.00, August Andersen, Racine. And thus the bravest of the brave horseback riders were amply rewarded.

A game of baseball also was played, and the younger generation enjoyed the dancing very much.

Complaints are being heard today that the street car company was far from prepared to meet the demands of its numerous patrons.

GOT IN THE WRONG CAR.

While the rush for reaching the Racine cars was at its height, P. J. Brudahl attempted to board one of the cars by entering through a window in the rear; his attempt was crowned with positive success, but keen disappointment could be read in the old man's features when he, well seated in the car, discovered the sad fact that he was on his way to Kenosha, and although Mr. Brudahl loves the Kenosha people with fervency, he deemed it more advisable to remain in Racine, and consequently was obliged to leave the car in search for one bound for Racine.

The Michigan guests left on board the steamer "City of Manistee," bringing with them the firm conviction that the people of Racine were the best in the world.

CHURCH MEMBERS PICNIC.

The Young People's society of the Emaus church enjoyed an outing in Piper's grove yesterday and spent the hours with games, songs, merriment and laughter.

MOLDERS' MONSTER PICNIC.

Union park was taxed almost to its utmost capacity last Saturday night when a crowd of nearly 5,000 people were brought together through the efforts of the local Iron Molders union. The proceeds from the wholly successful affair aggregate around $300 which is to be used by the still striking molders, who as yet see no peace prospects.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HILLCREST CEMETERY ASSN. INCORP.

In 1823, George Parish deeded the original plot of ground to be used as a cemetery to the Baptist church. The Baptist church was located in the foreground of this plot; in 1854, the church burned, and its site was enclosed for burial purposes. The lot of Milo Adams was the southern limit of this new addition. Later, more ground was purchased from Moses Woodard. This extended the old grounds to their present proportions.

In the fall of 1897, four more acres were purchased from Mr. Charles Morgan, and an effort was immediately initiated to restore the old grounds and to lay out the new part in burial lots, to accurately map the old part and as far as possible, make an accurate list of the burial therein. To a degree, this effort was successful, as later the trustees of the Baptist church deeded the old grounds to the committee that had forwarded this movement, and, in turn, the committee made this deed with all the others to the Hillcrest Cemetery.

The first burials were Hannah Flower, wife of Deacon George Flower, on July 28, 1822, and Phoebe Brand, first wife of Rev. Greaton Brand, on July 24, 1823.

The cemetery formed a cemetery corporation, known as the Hillcrest Cemetery Incorporated, on November 15, 1901, and it was recorded in the County Clerks's office at Canton on November 18, 1901.

The land which was purchased from Charles Morgan in 1897 was made into two circles, with circle driveways. The first circle was developed soon after it was purchased in 1897 and lots were sold. At a meeting held on July 16, 1937, it was decided to open the second circle and develop it. In the October of 1938, the town completed the labor for developing this section at a cost of $379.25.

The additions of the fountain and flower beds were donated by Myron and Clara Robson in the summer of 1929. These gifts were greatly appreicated by the lot owners.

On January 20, 1978, the Hillcrest Cemetery Assn. Incorp. acquired the Catholic Cemetery which bordered it and only had a few burials. The Catholic church bought this parcel of land at the top of the Dugway, beside the Hillcrest Cemetery, and the land was blessed by Bishop Wadhams in 1883. In 1890, with the passing of Father Walsh and the leveling of his church, the Parishville parish ceased to exist. The cemetery and also the Coulon cemetery in Wick became a part of the Holy Cross Parish in Hopkinton.

In 1978, Parishville again had a parish and St. Michaels; under the direction of the Catholic Diocese of Ogdensburg, gave this land to the Hillcrest Cemetery Assn. Incorp., with the understanding that the cemetery association would pay all financial fees, maintain existing grave sites, and use the property for no purpose other than a cemetery.

Hillcrest Cemetery Assn. Incorp. (con't)

During the summers of 1980 and 1981, the town highway department filled the ravine and a private contractor was hired to level it.

In 1982, letters were mailed to relatives of the people buried in Hillcrest Cemetery requesting donations of money in memory of their loved ones, for the purpose of completing this project and for the attractive addition to the cemetery, and also, for further revenues from sale of lots. Over $1100 was realized.

In 1982, the Town Historian indexed the complete cemetery which is included in this booklet. Also, the maps were updated.

Time Neighbor.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 18.—(A. P.)—The home folks of Plymouth are bidding farewell to "Colonel John." To the room in a modest white farm house where the president's father lies dying, each day u few sad faced neighbors are admitted. Col. John C. Coolidge, for many years the town's first citizen, has requested their presence and they obey the summons.

In the general store where the citizens of this Green mountain hamlet met to discus the affairs of the day, the colonel's request stirs the memory of the elders. They recall that the colonel's wife just before her death six years ago, felt a similar urge to bid old friends goodbye. Ties are strong in these remote Vermont hills.

Lifelong friends are included in the list of those who have entered the sick room for the brief visit permitted by physicians and nurses. Others who have come were associated with Col. TOWER MAN SAVES TRUCK DRIVER'S LIFE

Truck Becomes Stalled in Path of Oncoming Passenger Train.

Presence of mind displayed by a tower man on duty at the Northwestern railroad crossing on Washington avenue probably saved the life of Jerome Klemon, a driver for Morris Matsen, 1236 Washington avenue, at 10:30 a. m. today. Noticing that one of Matsen's trucks was stalled on the Twelfth street crossing, the tower man threw his signals and stopped the 10:30 southbound passenger train.

The driver stalled his engine as he was crossing the railroad tracks at that point with the train bearing down upon him. The engineer of the train succeeded in applying his brakes and almost brought the heavy passenger train to a stop before crashing into the stalled truck. The rear fenders on the one-ton truck were broken by the impact.

Had it not been for the action of the tower man it is probable that Klemon would have lost his life as he did not have time to jump out of the truck.

3 ATTEMPT SUICIDE; 2 ARE SUCCESSFUL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 18.—(By A. P.)—Sebastian Hopp and Henry Rude, both of West Allis, shot and killed themselves Wednesday night, and Ray Kazmierski, 16 years old, is in a hospital in a serious condition as the result of attempting suicide.

Hopp, according to relatives, was in good spirits Wednesday night, when he returned from bowling but about 12:30 Thurs-workers.

In the visiting teacher work the New York organization pays two-thirds of the expense of a visiting teacher and the local school board the remaining third.

The second program attempted by the fund was positive health work for children. This work has extended even into Austria from which place Miss Quinn recently returned after having assisted in the work for four months.

The last program attempted by the fund is a world hospital project. This she said is proving to be one of the biggest things for a community. It is the plan to build two hospitals each year in rural areas, the local community to pay one-third of the cost and the New York organization the remainder.

Miss Gertrude V. Gath, visiting teacher in the public schools, spoke of the work she has been engaged in since coming to Racine under the plan of the fund and told of the assistance which the Kiwanis club is giving so that a number of boys and girls may have the necessary aid to help them in obtaining their education. On March 29 and 30 a motion picture play, "The Keeper of the Bees," will be shown at the Majestic theater and Manager Frank Wolcott has agreed to donate the entire receipts of the two evening shows to the cause. Kiwanians are sponsoring the production.

Mother of 14 Paroled, She Manufactured "Moon"

Oconto, Wis.—(United Press.)—Mrs. Amelia Wolski, 50, was back at her home on a farm near here today, attending to the wants of her children, having been placed on probation by Judge H. F. Jones, after she had pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the dry law.

Judge Jones, hearing the testimony in the case, declared that Mrs. Wolski, who said she was forced to manufacture and sell moonshine to support her 14 children, was better off with her famly than in jail.

"If I placed this woman in jail, who would be the actual sufferers?" the judge asked, announcing his decision.

"The children, of course. The mother would be well taken care of in jail, but the children would become county charges. No county in the world can take care of children as well as their own mother.

"Conditions, as I understand it, were such that this mother is not so much to blame. Left alone with her children, after being deserted by her husband, she could find no other way out."

Judge Jones declared that the older Wolski children had come to him and offered to help their mother and the smaller children. He said he was confident that placing the woman on probation would do much more good than sending her to jail.

Judge Jones declared he did not wish to express himself on the prohibition law, saying, however, that if the law were enforced, it would be deserving of much merit.

The war of 1812, was declared while the people of Irasburgh were making salts and whiskey and smuggling goods from Canada. An association had formed consisting of a dozen or more men who gave a joint and several note to Wm. Baxter of Brownington for funds which they used in the smuggling business.

This ring was not broken up till 1814, when an association of anti-smugglers, who worked for their own interest, frustratred all their plans and overpowered them. During this year the first framed house was put up in what is now the village, by Eber Burton. This house is still standing and in a good state of preservation. It was used many years as a hotel, and was occupied as such by Jesse Rolf, Ezekiel Little and George Nye.

In 1812, the Legislature of the State passed an act constituting Irasburgh the Shire-town of Orleans County, provided the inhabitants of Irasburgh would erect a court-house and jail at their own expense. Nothing appears to have been done towards erecting buildings, till after Ira H. Allen came here in 1814. The buildings were put up in 1815, and completed so that the courts were held here 1816. The old court-house was moved in 1847, and a new one erected upon the site, which cost nearly $4000, which was also built by the town at no expense to the County. The first jail was built of logs or hewn timber, ceiled with three-inch hardwood plank. This structure stood till 1838, when it was taken down and a stone structure erected on its site. This jail was 18 feet square on the ground, two stories high. It was found to be too small, at many times, and was not considered safe for desperate characters; so, upon recommendation of the members from Orleans County, the Legislature of 1861 authorized the County judges to borrow $3000 for the purpose of erecting a new jail. Harry Hinman, Jonathan Elkins and E. P. Colton, were appointed a committee by the legislature to rebuild. The new jail was erected in 1862, and is one of the safest, best constructed buildings of the kind in the country. It is 26 by 36 ft on the ground, two stories high, and built of the best of granite.

When the news of the declaration of war by the United States against Great Britain reached this town, a meeting was called, and Nath'l Kellam, John Adams, Roger Enos, Benj. Hardy and Caleb Leach, were appointed a committee of safety. This committee bought some powder and lead, but we have not been able to learn that they performed any other duty. Several citizens of the town served in the army, among whom were Capt. James Richardson. Capt. Oliver Burton, James Leach, Alexander Benton, Amos Stafford, John Little, Joshua Taylor, John Kellam and many others.

The principal business of the inhabitants, during the war, seems to have been, one party taking cattle and contraband goods from the other party. Roger Enos, Ezekiel Little and Jos. Kidder were deputy collectors of customs, and with their friends and retainers, were continually alert for smugglers. The government party became strongest, and many of those who engaged in smuggling became bankrupt and left the town. Some families went away during the war, and never returned; many went West during the decade from 1810 to '20; so that there were but an increase of 40 inhabitants in the 10 years. From 1820 to 1830, the population more than doubled; it was a decade of great prosperity for the town. Ezekiel Little built a saw-mill on the river above the old mills, and Sylvester Howard put in a tannery at that place. Roger Enos erected a factory for the manufacture of woolens, which stood opposite the grist-mill. A foundry was also built here, and a company formed for the purpose of manufacturing scales. They infringed upon the rights of E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., who compelled them to stop business. The foundry was used, for many years, for the manufacture of stoves and plows.

CALEB LEACH,

who made the first settlement in the east part of the town, was very much respected by his townsmen, and was a very industrious, hard-working man. He cleared up a large farm, built a good set of buildings; and, in 1812, had everything comfortable around him. He was elected the first representative from the town, and was re-elected for the following 4 years—serving 5 years in all. He was one of the first board of selectmen, and held many offices in town. He was the first settler, the first representative, and the first man in town in point of wealth, intelligence and location. He was a resident till the summer of 1816, when he sold his property and moved to the West.

to where?

was a younger brother, who settled on lot No. 109—lived here till the war of 1812, when he went into the army where he was promoted to a captaincy. I have not been able to learn whether he resided here after the war.

Society; the third son, Colin Campbell (born 1859) lived until 1958, and two of his children still live in the village: Dean (born 1894) and Gordon (born 1899); the only daughter, Clara Abbie (born 1866) became the wife of Charles Simonds and the mother of eight sons: Harry, Raymond, Clark, Guy, Roland, Philip, Charles and Kenneth (all of whom have now died, but granchildren and great grandchildren still reside in Saxtons River).

John Leach: The son of a sea-captain in the India trade, he moved to Saxtons River before 1797, settling on a western hilltop overlooking the village and the distant hills of New Hampshire. The road past his house became known as the Leach Road; it made its way down to join the Pleasant Velley Road near the Richard Stickney farm. At the time of his death in 1829, he left an estate of $30,000. His grandson, John Allen Leach (born 1836), after graduating from Amherst College and Andover Newton Theological Seminary, became the pastor of the Second Congregational Church in Keene, N. H. which he served for 20 years. After his retirement, he spent the remainder of his life back on the old family farm. Rev. and Mrs. Leach had no children, but helped educate 31 children, and did adopt three: Stella, Mary and Alfred Buckingham who took the Leach name. Stella married and moved to California, but Alfred and Mary lived on at the farm until 1942 when they sold the property and moved to Bellows Falls. Alfred wed Mrs. Catherine Miner, who survives. Since 1942 the farm has had several owners, most of whom used it as a summer residence. The present owners, the Eisners, have enlarged both the house and the acreage.

Ebenezer Locke: A native of Massachusetts, born in 1763, he came to Rockingham as a young man, and farmed there throughout his life. His grandson, Cyrus (born 1814), married Amelia Bailey, thus becoming the brother-in-law of William L. and Henry C. Wiley. The Cyrus Lockes had two children: Flora who married Ransom E. Smith and died September 30, 1869 at the birth of her son, Walter Leroy Smith; and Foster Bailey Locke, who was a successful storekeeper and whose home is currently the residence of the Dr. Ray Griffin family, on Pleasant Street.

Ebenezer Lovell: The Lovells (originally spelled Lovel) were among the earliest settlers in Rockingham and their descendants were among the leading citizens. Ebenezer, a recruiting officer in the War of 1812, was chosen captain of a militia company in Saxtons River when he was only 16. His fourth and last child was Warren (born 1802), and he was commissioned a lieutenant of the Saxtons River Light Infantry in 1822. The next year, though still a minor, he became postmaster, holding that office until 1826.

Society; the third son, Colin Campbell (born 1839) lived until 1938, and two of his children still live in the village: Dean (born 1864) and Gordon (born 1867); the only daughter, Clara Abbie (born 1865) became the wife of Charles Simonds and the mother of eight sons: Harry, Raymond, Clark, Guy, Roland, Philip, Charles and Kenneth (all of whom have now died, but grandchildren and great grandchildren still reside in Saxtons River).

John Leach: The son of a sea-captain in the India trade, he moved to Saxtons River before 1795, settling on a farm on hilltop overlooking the village and the distant hills of New Hampshire. The road past his house became known as the Leach Road; it made its way down to join the Pleasant Valley Road near the Richard Spinney farm. At the time of his death in 1859, he left an estate of $20,000. His grandson, John Allen Leach (born 1834), after graduation from Amherst College and Andover Union Theological Seminary, became the pastor of the Second Congregational Church in Keene, N. H. which he served for 20 years. After his retirement, he spent the remainder of his life back on the old family farm. Rev. and Mrs. Leach had no children, but helped educate 31 children, and did adopt three: Stella, Mary and Alfred Buckingham who took the Leach name. Stella married and moved to California, but Alfred and Mary lived on at the farm until 1962 when they sold the property and moved to Bellows Falls. Alfred and Mrs. Catherine Mixer, who survives. Since 1962 the farm has had several owners, most of whom used it as a summer residence. The present owners, the Ellerts, have enlarged both the house and the acreage.

Ebenezer Locke: A native of Massachusetts, born in 1763, he came to Rockingham as a young man, and farmed there throughout his life. His grandson, Cyrus (born 1810), married Amelia Bailey, thus becoming the brother-in-law of William L. and Henry O. Bailey. The Cyrus Lockes had two children: Flora who married Reuben E. Smith and died September 30, 1869 at the birth of her son, Walter Leroy Smith; and Foster Bailey Locke, who was a successful storekeeper and whose home is currently the residence of the Dr. Ray Griffin family, on Pleasant Street.

Ebenezer Lovell: The Lovells (originally spelled Lovel) were among the earliest settlers in Rockingham and their descendants were among the leading citizens. Ebenezer, a recruiting officer in the War of 1812, was chosen captain of a militia company in Saxtons River when he was only 16. His fourth and last child was Warren (born 1802), and he was commissioned a lieutenant of the Saxtons River Light Infantry in 1820. The next year, though still a minor, he became postmaster, holding that office until 1826.

Daniel Kellogg: Judge Kellogg was born in Amherst, Mass. in 1791. Having graduated from Williams College in 1810 he studied law with his brother-in-law, Gen. Martin Field. In 1814 he came to Saxtons River where he practiced law until 1856, then moved to Brattleboro. He was State's Attorney, District Attorney, Judge of Probate, member of the Legislature, etc. and an unsuccessful candidate as Democratic Governor of Vermont. In 1825, due to the illness of Gov. Van Ness, Judge Kellogg welcomed General Lafayette when he visited this state. His son, George Bradley Kellogg (born 1825) was also a lawyer, and was in practice with his father from 1846-1855 when he moved to Brattleboro. A daughter, Sarah Bradley Kellogg, (born 1831) wed Henry Augustus Willard of Willard's Hotel in Washington. This noted hotel was a favorite place for DAR members when attending Continental Congress there.

Henry Lake: Born in Topsfield, Mass. in 1759, he came to Saxtons River in 1795 via Rindge and Walpole, N. H. to settle on a farm on Sunrise Hill, owned by his family for six generations, then by the Emory Vancors, and now by Mrs. Alberta Clark. There were only two houses in the "village" when Mr. Lake came, and he found two "sqatters" on his land. He soon started a school for the 21 children there, plus his own 12. Eight of his nine sons became teachers. The entire family were very musical; this talent has remained through the generations. They formed a "Lake Band", playing for Fourth of July and other celebrations. Their instruments were: two fifes, three drums, a clarinet, bugle, haut-bois (tenor) and bassoon (bass).

Henry brought his father, Daniel, then 71, with him; he died in Saxtons River in 1810. Daniel, Henry and brother Enos all fought in the Revolution. They set out from their home in Rindge, N. H., camped the first night at Charlestown, the second at Peru, Vt. en route to Ticonderoga, but General Burgoyne had left by the time they reached there. Henry went on to Bennington (his knapsack is still owned by family members) while Daniel and Enos returned to Rindge.

Twelve children were born to Henry and his wife; a son, Henry, Jr. (born 1786) lived on the family farm. He taught district school, singing school and directed the band. He also held several political offices and represented Rockinham in the State Legislature. He fathered six children, the fourth being Clark Sylvanus (born 1829). (His diary, written when he was 19, is now in the possession of the Saxtons River Historical Society.) The Clark Lakes had four children: Henry (born 1852) became a dealer of musical instruments in Keene, N. H.; Edwin Raymond (born 1857), by his first marriage was the father of Maude Lake May, a fine soloist; and by his marriage to Milton Wiley's daughter, Corinne, he was the father of Corinne Lake Coleman, the current president of the Saxtons River Historical Society; the third son, Colin Campbell (born 1859) lived until 1958, and two of his children still live in the village: Dean (born 1894) and Gordon (born 1899); the only daughter, Clara Abbie (born 1866) became the wife of Charles Simonds and the mother of eight sons: Harry, Raymond, Clark, Guy, Roland, Philip, Charles and Kenneth (all of whom have now died, but granchildren and great grandchildren still reside in Saxtons River).

The deed was recorded 29 Aug. 1753 (vol. 43, p. 56, Concord), and a month after this purchase of a new home in neighboring Nottingham West, on 20 April 1753, James Caldwell of Windham, with wife Margaret Caldwell signing also with her mark, sold to "Hugh Mongoumbrey (Montgomery)" and Hugh Bell, both of Londonderry, the Windham Golden Brook eighty acres, a 2½ acre meadow bought 23 May 1745, 150 rods bought 5 March 1745, and the 130 rods bought 7 Nov. 1747 by James Caldwell junr. Witnesses: Robert Boyes and James Caldwell. Both James and wife Margaret Caldwell acknowledged signatures 23 April 1753. The deed was recorded 5 April 1757 (vol. 51, p. 523). The 66 acre Nottingham West purchase became the James Caldwell family's home until 16 Feb. 1769 when James Caldwell and wife Margaret deeded it to Asa Davis and moved between 11 April and 17 May 1769 to what became Jaffrey, N. H. They lived there till not later than 31 May 1774, when "James Caldwell of Jaffrey", wife Margaret, by her mark, signing also, deeded their Jaffrey land. "In witness hereof I have hereunto Set my hand and Seal at Windham this 31st May 1774". Wit.: David Gregg, John Cutler. After twenty-one years James and Margaret Caldwell had returned to Windham. This connected the Revolutionary War services of some of their seven sons with that town.

1 April 1775 (vol. 111, p. 199, Exeter) James Galt of Windham, Wheelwright, for 57 pounds, 6 shil., 8 pence, paid by James Caldwell of the town, husbandman, deeded 40 acres in Windham, bounded on Hugh Brown, Golden Brook, etc. The witnesses were James Caldwell, jun., and James Belton; the deed was recorded 16 June 1779. 4 April 1780 James Caldwell of Windham in County Rockingham, yeoman, sold this land to John Davidson, jun., for 2000 pounds; signed, "James Caldwell", "Margaret [her mark] Caldwell"; ackn. same day by James; recorded 8 June 1780 (vol. 112, p. 289, Exeter). The above probate record proves that the James Caldwell of Londonderry, N. H., who bought land there 16 April 1737 in the southerly part that in 1742 became Windham, married the sister of Widow Rachel Leach, of Chester, N. H.; and that they had a son James also of Windham in October 1751 and four living daughters who were then the wives of James Dunlap, Hugh Brown, James Wason, and John McCay. The Windham first record book on page 429, gives the births of five children of "James Caldwell of Windham and Margaret Caldwell his wife" as James, 13 April 1742; Hannah, 23 Feb. 1743–4; Thomas, 15 April 1746; Agnas, 21 July 1748; and Samuel, 12 March 1751. James Dunlap's first wife was Sarah Robinson, and their one recorded child, Isabel, was born 15 Nov. 1747. Margaret was his wife when he died, almost surely Margaret Caldwell Dunlap. The children of Hugh Brown and wife Susanah listed as: Alexander, 23 Dec. 1754; James, 1 June 1757; Charles, 13 March 1760; Samuel, 31 Oct. 1762. Children of John MacCay and wife Janet MacCay: Alexander, 16 Nov. 1744; James, 23 July 1746; William, 25 March 1748; John, 14 July 1750; Hannah, 10 March 1752.

HOPKINTON & FORT JACKSON CEMETERY

The Hopkinton - Fort Jackson Cemetery contains graves of the first people who died in the town of Hopkinton. It was not, however, the first burial ground of the pioneers. The first one was west of the village park (or green), in the woods behind what is now the home of Charles Perry. The present cemetery grounds were deeded to the Town of Hopkinton by its founder, Roswell Hopkins, on April 24th, 1817. That is, one acre and 117 rods were a gift from Mr. Hopkins at that time. It comprised what is known as Cemetery One, the oldest part, in about the middle of the present cemetery.

Elisha Risdon cleared the trees off this land in 1806, as is mentioned on his tombstone. It is not known exactly when the remains of those first burials were dug up and transferred to the present cemetery, but there they are, with tombstones that date back to 1811, just nine years from the time when the first settlers came to Hopkinton.

Through the years appropriations and bequests have been made for extending the cemetery and beautifying the grounds, until now, in 1957, it stretches south to the road and north almost to the village of Fort Jackson., - bounded, of course, by Lyd Brook on the east and the Hopkinton - Fort Jackson road on the west. The grounds are really beautiful and have been kept so all through the years by the loving care of descendants of those first families who were buried there.

The quiet serenity of the place has had its nostalgic effect on so many people who have lived in this town, causing them to request that their bodies be brought back here for burial, that there are now over three thousand burials in this cemetery. Mention should be made of the Hopkins, Chittenden, Kent, Sprague, Laughlin, Phelps families, and many others, whose generous donations have done much toward keeping the grounds clean and beautiful.

The Cemetery Association was organized in 1933 by Marion C. Hopkins, the last of the Hopkins descendants living in this town. She died in 1941. Mrs. Clark Chittenden , Secretary of the Association, very concientiously places fresh flags on the graves of all the war veterans who are buried here, each Memorial Day . Following is a list of those veterans, as copied from Mrs. Chittenden's files.

Much credit should be given to Mr. Fred Williams, the caretaker, who keeps the cemetery in its present excellent condition.

To: Descendants of Relatives and Siblings of William M. Chandler, born 1841, Peru, NY

From: Edward Leach, great grandson of William M. Chandler

William M. Chandler, born 1841, Peru, NY, moved with his parents to Clinton Co., IA, before 1860. About 1863, William Chandler, married Roxana Russell, born 1841, near Syracuse, NY. Roxana moved with her parents to Clinton Co. before 1843. Both the Chandler and Russell families settled near Camanche.

William Chandler's obituary in 1893 provided several facts in addition to his birth date and birthplace. It stated that "his aged mother still lives near Camanche"; but she was not identified by name. I have been unable to obtain her identity.

According to their obituaries, both William and Roxana were buried in the Camanche cemetery. They had two sons, Lester and William, my ancestor, who survived them; however, neither son remained in Clinton County.

If you have any information concerning my ancestors, I would appreciate hearing from you.

To: Descendants of Nehemiah H. Russell & Mary Ann Lamson

From: Edward Leach, Dececendant of Nehemiah H. Russell & Mary Ann Lamson

I am a descendant of Roxana (Russell) Chandler, born 1840, near Syracuse, New York. The Nehemiah H. Russell family probably arrived in the Camanche area before 1843. The Russells are buried in Shafton cemetery, Follette, Clinton County, Iowa.

Roxana Russell was the youngest child; and her sister, Mary Abigail (Russell) Shaff, was the oldest child of Nehemiah and Mary Ann Russell. Roxana married William M. Chandler, December 1864, in Clinton. They had two sons, Lester and William A Chandler, who survived them. Both Lester and William, my ancestor, moved from Clinton area..

At the time of Roxana's death in October 1894, she had three brothers who survived her. Amherst and Thomas Russell lived in the Camanche area, and Adna Russell resided in California. Roxana's brother, Friend Russell, died in Camanche in 1877.

I have been researching my Russell/Chandler connection for a number of years, but I have not progressed beyond Nehemiah H. Russell and Mary Ann Lamson. We do know that Nehemiah was living in Fort Covington, New York, in 1830. Other Russells were living in this small town at the same time, and I do suspect there was a relationship between them. However, I have not determined the relationship at this time.

Since Roxana had three brothers who lived in Clinton County, I felt that some of their descendants might currently live in Clinton or Scott Counties. In an attempt to find other facts about my ancestors, I decided to contact the Russells in Clinton and nearby communities. Other descendants often have facts, leads, stories, pictures, or other memorabilia that help in the search for answers.

We were in Clinton, Iowa, 10 years ago for a reunion with two cousins from the East Coast. We still have fond memories of the gracious hospitality and helpful attitude of the people we met.

Mary McKenrick, of Low Moor, and Marian Paasch, of Clinton, were so friendly and helpful. We felt really at home in Iowa. Mary, a descendant of Amherst and Ann (Willett) Russell, shared bible records and allowed us to review Ann Russell's diary. Both Marian and Mary were most generous with their time, ideas, and hospitality. It was an unforgettable visit.

If you are a descendant of Friend, Amherst, or Thomas, Russell, or their sisters, Mary A. Shaff or Lydia E. Parkhurst, I would appreciate hearing from you. My name, address, telephone No., and e-mail address are Edward Leach, 7541 Oak Leaf Drive, Santa Rosa, CA 95409-6263, (707) 537-1609, bleach@inreach.com.

To: Descendants of Nehemiah H. Russell & Mary Ann Lamson

From: Edward Leach, Dececendant of Nehemiah H. Russell & Mary Ann Lamson

I am a descendant of Roxana (Russell) Chandler, born 1840, near Syracuse, New York. The Nehemiah H. Russell family probably arrived in the Camanche area before 1843. The Russells are buried in Shafton cemetery, Follette, Clinton County, Iowa.

Roxana Russell was the youngest child; and her sister, Mary Abigail (Russell) Shaff, was the oldest child of Nehemiah and Mary Ann Russell. Roxana married William M. Chandler, December 1864, in Clinton. They had two sons, Lester and William A Chandler, who survived them. Both Lester and William, my ancestor, moved from Clinton area..

At the time of Roxana's death in October 1894, she had three brothers who survived her. Amherst and Thomas Russell lived in the Camanche area, and Adna Russell resided in California. Roxana's brother, Friend Russell, died in Camanche in 1877.

I have been researching my Russell/Chandler connection for a number of years, but I have not progressed beyond Nehemiah H. Russell and Mary Ann Lamson. We do know that Nehemiah was living in Fort Covington, New York, in 1830. Other Russells were living in this small town at the same time, and I do suspect there was a relationship between them. However, I have not determined the relationship at this time.

Since Roxana had three brothers who lived in Clinton County, I felt that some of their descendants might currently live in Clinton or Scott Counties. In an attempt to find other facts about my ancestors, I decided to contact the Russells, Shaffs, and Parkhursts in Clinton and nearby communities. Other descendants often have facts, leads, stories, pictures, or other memorabilia that help in the search for answers.

We were in Clinton, Iowa, 10 years ago for a reunion with two cousins from the East Coast. We still have fond memories of the gracious hospitality and helpful attitude of the people we met.

Mary McKenrick, of Low Moor, and Marian Paasch, of Clinton, were so friendly and helpful. We felt really at home in Iowa. Mary, a descendant of Amherst and Ann (Willett) Russell, shared bible records and allowed us to review Ann Russell's diary. Both Marian and Mary were most generous with their time, ideas, and hospitality. It was an unforgettable visit.

If you are a descendant of Friend, Amherst, or Thomas, Russell, or their sisters, Mary Abigail Russell, wife of Heman B. Shaff, and Lydia E. aka Emily L. or Emeline Russell, wife of Waldo Parkhurst, I would appreciate hearing from you. My name, address, telephone No., and e-mail address are Edward Leach, 7541 Oak Leaf Drive, Santa Rosa, CA 95409-6263, (707) 537-1609, bleach@inreach.com.

My self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed.

A JOURNAL KEPT BY JOHN LEACH, DURING HIS CONFINEMENT BY THE BRITISH, IN BOSTON GAOL, IN 1775.

[Communicated to the Register by EDWARD JACOB FORSTER, of Charlestown, Mass., a great-grandson of Mr. Leach.]

[JOHN LEACH, the author of the following journal, came to this country from England, at the age of 27. He married, in Boston, Sarah Coffin, granddaughter of Nathaniel and Damaris Coffin, July 24, 1750. She died there March 25, 1811, aged 78. Mr. Leach, who kept a navigation school in Boston previous to the revolution, was practically fitted for his profession, having thrice circumnavigated the globe. He died at his residence in Bennet street, Boston, June 10, 1799, aged 75. Their children, seventeen in number, were:— -b 1724

We have been favored by Mr. Forster with a printed copy of the diary of Peter Edes, who was one of the companions of Mr. Leach in his confinement.* Mr. Edes was imprisoned June 19, 1775. Under date of June 29 (page 9) he says; "Masters Leach and Lovell were brought to prison and put into the same room with me and my companions." The general statements of the two diarists agree in almost every particular. In many of the sentences the same phraseology occurs. Where an important variation is made, it will be noted. There are breaks in the journal of Mr. Leach, commencing July 21, and ending Aug. 11, as also from Aug. 26 to Oct. 3d. The most interesting parts of these omissions we have supplied from the journal of Mr. Edes. So far as the memorandums of Mr. Leach are carried out, they are set down in the same order and under the same dates with those of Mr. Edes. The days on which Mr. Edes makes no record his companion makes none. The two journals remind us, in some respects, of the Ware and Tolman journals of an expedition against Quebec in 1775. See Register, vi. 129–141; Book of the Lockes, page 323; Whitmore's Handbook of American Genealogy, page 87. In the notice of the death of Mr. Leach in the Columbian Centinel, it is mentioned that "he was an eminent teacher of Mathematics."—Editor.]

Memorandums, began Thursday, June 29th, 1775.—At 3 this afternoon, a few steps from my House, I was seized upon by Major Cane, of the Regulars, accompanied by one Loring, who is lately made a Sheriff; they obliged me to return to my House, where Major Cane demanded my Keys of my Desks, and search'd all my Drawings, Writings, &c., and told me I had a great deal to answer for. I replyed, it was very well, I stood ready at a minute's warning to answer any accusation; I had a drawn Hanger, I could have took hold of in a moment, and cut them both down. I had both Courage and inclination to do it, tho' they had each their swords by their sides, but I suddenly reflected, that I could not escape, as the whole Town was a prison. God wonderfully restrained me, as I should have lost my Life, either by them, or some of their Companions. They then conducted me from my House to the Stone Gaol, and after being lodged there 20 minutes, the said Cane and Loring brought in Master James Lovell, after searching his Papers, Letters, &c. as they had done mine. Cane carried my drawings to show Gen. Gage, next day, and returned them.

June 30, 1775. Friday, Continued in the same confinement; and Saturday, Major Harry Rooke took a Book of Religion from Mr. Joseph Otis, the Gaol keeper, who told him the Book belonged to some of the Charlestown prisoners, taken at Bunker's Hill fight, and was given them by a Clergyman of the Town. He carried it to Show General Gage, and then brought it back, and said, "It is your G—d Damned Religion of this Country that ruins the Country; Damn your Religion." I would only add this remark, that this Pious officer holds his Commission by a Sacramental Injunction, from his most Sacred Majesty King George the 3d.

From Sunday, July 2d, to Monday, 17*th*. From the 2d July to the 17th a Complicated scene of Oaths, Curses, Debauchery, and the most horrid Blasphemy, Committed by the Provost Marshal, his Deputy and Soldiers, who were our guard, Soldier prisoners, and sundry soldier Women, confined for Thefts, &c. We had some of the Vilest Women for our Neighbours; some placed over our Heads, and some in Rooms each side of us; they acted such scenes as was shocking to Nature, and used Language, horrible to hear; as if it came from the very Suburbs of Hell. When our Wives, Children and Friends came to see us (which was seldom they were permitted), we seemed to want them gone, notwithstanding we were so desirous of their Company, as they were exposed to hear the most abandon'd Language, as was grating to the Ears of all sober persons. Friday, July 7th, my Wife came to see me. She has attempted it since, but was denied sundry times, and I did not see her again till the 28th July. We are very close confined, having the Doors open for air, sometimes one hour in 24, and sometimes not at all. Monday 17th, my son Tileston died, whom I left well in my house; I was not permitted to attend the Funeral, notwithstanding my Letter to the General this morning requesting the same, or Dismission, or Trial. This Evening the Provost informed us, there was to be held a Garrison Court of Enquiry, at Concert Hall to-morrow, in Consequence of my Letter. We were desired to prepare for trial.

Tuesday, 18*th*. We were escorted by a strong Guard of soldiers from the Gaol to Concert Hall; Our Room Companions consisting of 5, James Lovell,* John Leach, John Hunt, Peter Edes,† and William Starr; also Dorrington, his son and maid, for blowing up Flies. These 3 last were examined to day, and then we were all returned to Gaol.

Wednesday, 19*th*. Escorted from Gaol again, with the additional Company of 3 Sailors, Thieves and House-breakers; surrounded by Soldiers, we made a Curious medley; the Fly blowers examined, and the 3 Sailors. Mr. Hunt, Mr. Edes, and Mr. Starr, were asked who prosecuted them, and one Capt. Symmes, of the Regulars, was summoned by Major Moncreif, as an Evidence against Mr. Lovell and myself. Till this Time we did not know our Crimes, on what account we were committed, but now we found Mr. Lovell was charged with "being a Spy, and giving intelligence to the Rebels." And my charge, "being a spy, and suspected of taking plans." When Capt. Symmes appeared, he knew so little of us, that he called me Mr. Lovell; he knew so little of us, that instead of being a just Evidence, he appeared ashamed and confounded, and went off. At 2 o'clock we were sent back to our stone Edifice, under a strong Guard.

* Mr. Lovell died at Windham, Me., July 15, 1814, at the mansion of the Rev. Peter T. Smith, who was son of Rev. Thomas, grad. H. C. 1753; was ordained at Windham in 1762, dismissed in 1790, and died in Oct., 1826, aged 95. In the Columbian Centinel of July 20th is the following notice of Mr. Lovell.

"James Lovell, Esq., Naval Officer of the District of Boston and Charlestown, in the 77th year of his age. Mr. L. was a distinguished teacher in one of the first Latin schools in Boston, for many years after he graduated at Harvard University. [He graduated in 1756.] At the commencement of the revolutionary war, he was a warm advocate for the rights of his country, and early became obnoxious to Gen. Gage, while the British army held Boston, and in consequence of his firm and independent conduct, was taken up as a rebel and confined in prison many months, until the evacuation of the town by the enemy, when he was sent to Halifax, and there kept in close confinement for a long time. On his return to Boston, in such high estimation was he held by his fellow citizens, that they immediately elected him Member of Congress, in which station he was most useful to his country, as during the many years he represented his native State, he was one of the Committee of Foreign Correspondence, in which office he was laborious and unremitting in faithfully discharging the various and important duties of his very responsible station. Before the establishment of the present Constitution of the United States, he was Collector of the Customs for Boston, under the State Government of Massachusetts; but ever since has been Naval Officer, which station he has filled with fidelity to his country. He was hospitable and benevolent—a kind and affectionate parent, and an honest man."

He was son of John Lovell—grad. H. C., 1728—who after succeeding Jeremy Gridley as assistant, for some years, in the south grammar or Latin school in Boston, was placed at the head of the school in 1738. He was "the master" nearly forty years. His son James was for many years associated with him.—Allen's Biographical Dictionary.

† Peter Edes was born in Boston in 1756, son of Benjamin Edes, born Oct. 14, 1732, who was a printer, subsequently, of the firm of Edes & Gill, publishers of the Boston Gazette and Country Journal. See Register, xvi. 16.

Peter Edes was living in 1837, when his diary was printed, in Bangor, Me., at the age of 81. We make an extract from the "Advertisement," as published in the pamphlet. "He succeeded to the occupation of his father, and during his life, until within the few last years, he pursued his calling as a Printer with unwearied perseverance; printing and publishing books and newspapers in Boston and Haverhill in Massachusetts; in Newport, Rhode Island; in Baltimore, Maryland; and in Hallowell, Augusta, and Bangor, in Maine."

Thursday, 20*th*. Our 5 Room Companions were escorted as before, with one Carpenter, a Barber, who swam to Cambridge and back again. The said Carpenter and Mr. Hunt were examined. We were all sent back to Gaol again, under a strong Guard. This makes 3 days we were carried out to Trial, 4 Hours each Time (and nothing asked us) under all the disgrace and contempt they could contrive.

Friday, 21*st*. No Court of Enquiry held, so that we are still held in Suspence. We had been in 19 days, when we found out by chance, from the serjeant's returns, what our Crimes were, and yet we were ordered to prepare for Trial, and not accused of any thing; this is a most Curious . . . . . .

[Here is a chasm in the journal, and we give portions of the diary of Mr. Edes.

July 25. John Hunt and a Dutchman, Hyster, discharged.

July 26. Dorrington, his son and maid, discharged.

July 30. Mr. Walter Cruise was brought in prisoner from Charlestown. He was Corporal among the Riflemen, and was taken in the night in endeavoring to take a sentinel of the advanced guard of Bunker's Hill.

August 4. Mr. Gill, printer, was brought to prison and put in our room. He is charged with printing sedition, treason and rebellion.

August 9. Some small liberty of the yard; a poor painter, an inhabitant, was put in the dungeon and very ill used by the provost, and his deputy, Samuel Dyer; the then provost turned him out and made him get down on his knees in the yard and say, God bless the King.

August 11. Close confined; the provost would not suffer the doors to be opened to put our victuals in, but made us take it through the bars; and we] . . . . . . are daily treated with Fresh insults and abuses. To day Amos Fisk died; he was a Charlestown prisoner, and the Provost uttered the most horrid speeches, of what would become of his Soul and Body. This afternoon my Wife came, and tarried some time in the Gaol House before she was admitted, in which Time the Provost insulted her, by saying I was a Damned Rebel, and my Family the Damnedest Rebel Family in the Country. She was admitted into our Room a few minutes, and a Serjeant sent in with her, to hear the Conversation. The Provost told her she must not come again.

Saturday, 12*th*. Close Confined. This morning my Wife went to the General and got a pass to come and see me: our Treatment very hard on that account, so that we are abused if we Don't complain of hard usage, and are abused if we do. The order my Wife got was a permit to come and see me; this is the Copy of it, which I have now by me:

"Mrs. Leach has the General's permission to Visit her Husband, providing she carries in no Letters nor brings any out, and the Provost is always to hear the Conversation. R. DONKIN, Aug. 12, 1775. Aid de Camp.

To day a poor Journeyman Baker was discharged from Gaol, after several days confinement, for speaking saucy to an officer. The man's name Hyter. The General knew nothing of it, and the poor man was obliged to pay a Dollar Fees; he had no body to complain to.

Sunday, 13*th*. Close shut up; much swearing and Blasphemy, Close under our Window, the whole day, by the Provost, his Deputy, and our Guard of Soldiers. It seems to be done on purpose, as they knew it was grating to us to hear such Language. This morning my Wife sent me a Note, in the Foot of a stocking roll'd up. We are obliged to act with secresy, as our Victuals, Cloaths and every thing are Constantly searched, for Letters and papers. This Note informed me that my Friend and Relation, Mrs. B——, was got well, of the small pox in the Country.

Monday, 14*th*. Close shut up: Very much swearing as usual, which we are confined to hear. Lucy Purnam,* a negro Woman, discharged; she had been confined for attempting to set the Town on fire.

Tuesday, 15*th*. Close confined, the weather hot. Died, Capt. Walker, a Country Prisoner, from Charlestown. Swearing began at 3 this morning, and held all Day: The place seems to be an Emblem of Hell. At 9 at Night most Horrid Swearing and Blasphemy; the worst man of War, that ever I knew, was nothing to Compare with this Diabolical place. Poor Mr. Lovell began to Droop; he is very weakly. It gives us all great Concern, as we were all more afraid of sickness in this dreadful place, than any thing else, but God wonderfully preserved our healths and spirits. I did not think we could possibly survive such Treatment, but our help was from above. They sometimes gave us Water in the pail in the morning, and by the Heat of the Weather and our Cell, it grew very warm, and they would not Change it, and Damned us, saying we must have that or none. This night I watched with Mr. Lovell.

Wednesday, 16*th*. The provost gave orders to the Serjeant of the Guard, to keep us Close. We took our Victuals thro' the Bars. Mr. Lovell Continues ill. To day Cornelius Turner, another Rifle man, was brought to Gaol; he ran from the Provincial Army, and attempted to go back, in a day or two after. He was told by Col. Robinson, about 1 o'clock, afternoon, that he must be hanged that day, at 4 o'clock, and a Minister of the Army came to Visit him, and for sundry days, to get him to confess all he knew about the Provincial Army. He was visited 2 or 3 times a day, by this Chaplain, for several days.

Thursday, 17*th*. Kept Close all day. One Mr. French, an Inhabitant, confined in the Dungeon all day, and at night let out, and was obliged to fall down on his knees to the Provost in the yard, and say, God bless the King. To day, Phineas Nevers, a Charlestown Prisoner, died. James Dickey discharged, and to pay a Dollar Fees; he paid a pistareen, and left his silver Broach in pawn, for 4 more; the Provost kept the Broach, and give Dyer the Pistareen. Also 3 Dollars was Demanded of Dorrington, and the Provost kept his Bed and Bedding 6 days, and then delivered them up. The old Dutchman who was Discharged the 25th July, was confined for Complaining of the soldiers for Robbing his Garden, which was his whole living, and because he had not a Dollar to pay his Fees, the soldiers on Guard were ordered, Each, to give him a kick as he went away.

Friday, 18*th*. Close Confined. Mr. Lovell received an answer from General Howe, to a Letter he wrote him. Much swearing from morning to Night.

* Edes has this name, Lucy Purham.

Saturday, 19th. Close Confined; Dreadful Language from morning to Night; Mr. Lovell Continues poorlye. This afternoon my Wife came to ask my advice, about signing, for buying meat, as none were to have it but Friends of Government. I told her to sign nothing, and trust to Providence, and ask no favours from such Wretches. The poor sick and Wounded prisoners fare very hard, are many days without the Comforts of Life. Doctor Brown Complained to Mr. Lovell and me, that they had no Bread all that Day and the day before. He spoke to the Provost, as he had the Charge of serving the Bread; he replied, they might eat the Nail Heads, and knaw the plank and be damn'd. The Comforts that are sent us by our Friends we are obliged to impart to these poor suffering Friends, and Fee the soldiers and others with Rum, to carry it them by by stealth, when we are Close Confined and cannot get to them. They have no Wood to burn many days together, to Warm their Drink, and dying men drink them cold. Some of the Limbs which have been taken off, it was said, were in a state of Putrifaction, not one survived amputation.

Sunday, 20th. From before sun Rise till after sun Sett, a Continued scene of horrid Swearing, Obscene Talk, and shocking Blasphemy. Mr. Lovell very ill, which gives us great uneasiness; to day we had some small liberty of the yard. They practice most Swearing on the Sabbath.

Monday, 21st. Most awful Swearing and Blasphemy from morning to Night. Mr. Lovell continues ill; no Compassion towards him any more than a Dog. We are all very much troubled for him, but cannot help him, any otherwise than by Brotherly kindness, and Tenderness. To day the Provost Cursed and Damned my little Child, for a Damn'd Rebel; he even Trembles at bringing my Diet.

Tuesday, 22d. A Hot day and Night; Close Confined. Doctor Eliot called at the Gate, and spoke to Mr. Lovell; he says the Provost ordered him not to Come here any more. We can't go to hear a Minister and we are denied his coming to see us.

Wednesday, 23d. This Morning, when my son brought my Breakfast, the provost said to the soldiers on Guard, G—d Damn that Dog (meaning my child), don't let him come up the yard; that Dog deserves to be shot. In the afternoon Serjeant Neal and Corporal Royal were Confined prisoners by the Provost, for giving us air and Fresh Water in his Absence. They told him we were almost suffocated with Heat; he replied, G—d Damn them, if they are Dead and Rotten, my orders to you is to keep them Close.

Thursday, 24th. This day Confined 56 days; the weather exceeding Hot; we were close shut up all day.

Friday, 25th. Last Night Thomas Forakers, Boatbuilder, and his servant John Bouve,* were brought to Gaol, on suspicion of concealing a man that swam over from Chelsea, upon the false information of a very wicked Woman; and this morning the Boy John Bouve (about 16 years of age) was put in Irons, in the Dungeon, as he had nothing to confess; he was Examined by Major Sheriff and Major Rooke, and then hand cuffed and put in the Dungeon again. We fed the Boy from our Room, and encouraged him to keep up his spirits, by telling him they were a pack of Cowardly scoundrels, and dare not hurt the Hair of his Head. While his Irons were putting on, close by our Cell Door, the Provost said to him, he was a man under sentence of Death, and might Choose his Minister to Come and see him, for he was to be hanged this afternoon. At 5 in the afternoon, finding they could make nothing of him, they took his Irons off, and put him in a Room next to ours, among some Soldiers, Thieves, &c. The Weather very hot and we close confined all day.

[We continue our extracts from the journal of Mr. Edes.

August 26. Close confined. Master Leach's wife denied seeing her husband by the provost, though she had a pass. Robert Brick was sent off by a guard of armed men, down to Winnisimmet Ferry, and put over on the other side; he has been treated exceeding ill since his confinement. In the afternoon, Mr. Forakers and boy discharged. The provost's deputy, one Samuel Dyer, demanded two dollars of Forakers for fees; he paid him one dollar and left a pillow, porringer, &c. pledged for the other.

August 27. Close confinement, and none allowed to come near the bars to speak with us. At 8, P. M. Walter Cruise, rifleman, put in the dungeon and in irons. Master Leach's dinner was kept in the yard on a hogshead an hour before they brought it to the grate.

August 28. The air afforded us about an hour. At eight in the morning the irons were taken off Walter Cruise. We complained about Dyer to the General, about ill usage. No light or fire allowed us. At nine at night were threatened with being put in irons if we spoke a word at the front gate.

August 29. Received a proper allowance of bread to-day, of which we have been kept short a long time. At 5 in the afternoon it rained very hard, at which time the provost ordered our doors to be opened for an aring. Dyer tried and acquitted, and ordered to depart the province.

August 30. It rained the whole day, therefore was allowed some liberty of the yard if we chose to walk in it.

August 31. This day 37 days confined, and have had nothing but bread and water allowed us. This day each man had served for five days, pork, 2 lbs. 10 oz.—butter, 3½ oz.—rice, 1 gill—peas, 1¾ pint. Master Lovell had a half a pound of fresh beef, being sick.

September 2. The provost served us with 5 wooden spoons, 5 wooden trenchers, and a pail.

September 6. The doors open. Master Leach's wife came to see him, and was examined about the pass.

September 10. Doors open; our Sabbath something quiet; candle light allowed to-night; it was the provost's compliments to Mr. Gill. Have been without candle light and fire 16 nights.

September 11. Doors open; candle light as before; no want of swearing; several females and rogues discharged; Dyer in his glory —he is the provost's deputy, and a very bad man.

September 14. The doors open, and the rifle-men aired in the yard for the first time. We were not suffered to speak to them.

September 15. Many goods of the inhabitants have been plundered by the provost and sheriff Loring, and brought to the prison-house.

They made a (mock) vendue of them in the prison-house, Loring vendue-master; the provost, his son and Dyer, the bidders—a most curious piece of equity.

September 17. In the forenoon went to hear Mr. Morrison preach in Dr. Cooper's meeting house. He was formerly minister at Peterboro', and was obliged to quit his people on account of his scandalous behaviour. He was in our army at Bunker's Hill fight, and deserted them about 13 weeks ago. His harangue or tory sermon reflected grossly on the ministers of the town as the preachers of sedition, and on the people, saying they were ungrateful in being the destroyers and murderers of those very people who protected them from the French and Indians of Canada. Many tories attended who affected to grin, but it was, as Milton expresses it—"horribly, with a ghastly smile."

September 18. Master Leach's wife and seven children paid him a visit. Dyer discharged, to the great satisfaction of the prisoners.

September 21. Out of twenty-nine of the Charlestown prisoners, only eleven are living.

September 23. Firing all day at the lines. A captain of the regulars had a leg shot off at the lines.

September 24. Four prisoners went to meeting; we were not allowed the liberty.

September 25. Old Mr. Howe, a poor insane man, was brought to prison at the instigation of Nathaniel Coffin, Jr. and brother. They suspected he had stolen from them, and although no proof appeared, because they were rank tories, the poor man was unmercifully beat by the provost. Also, Mr. Dickman's old negro was served in the same manner, to gratify a certain young woman.

September 26. The Cerberus frigate arrived from England, 7 weeks passage, and had been 13 weeks from Boston. She sailed express with the account of the Bunker's Hill fight.

September 29. A rifleman prisoner brought in from Charlestown.

October 1, 2. Maj. Kemble came from the General with promise of relief, on finding two men, inhabitants, to pass their words that we should not leave the town. There was no bonds asked or given. This was offered to Mr. Gill, Mr. Starr, Master Leach and myself—nothing was said to Master Lovell, nor any offer made him.]

[We resume the journal of Master Leach.]

Tuesday, October 3. Doors open. We were obligated to sign a paper that we would not quit the Town, attested by 2 witnesses. And the obligation signed by Mr. Gill was refused, on account of my being one of the Witnesses. The General pointed to my Name, saying, "I do not like that Name," and they were obliged to draw them over again.

Wednesday, 4th. Was discharged, having been confined 97 days: the first 63 days allowed only Bread and Water.

In the foregoing Narrative, I have endeavour'd to avoid writing with warmth (tho' it might have been pardonable, from the abusive usage we met with), least it might be thought I was actuated by prejudice and anger. I must Confess I have been often at a loss to determine, which they seemed most to deserve, my Anger or my Pity: They deserved the former, from the scandalous treatment we received; and the latter claimed a share, from the consideration of their being fellow Creatures, made after the Image of the Glorious Creator of us all, and by whose restraining Grace alone, we are made to differ.

> Teach me to feel another's Woe,
> To hide the fault I see;
> That Mercy I, to others show,
> That Mercy show to me. [Pope's Universal Prayer.

LEACH HISTORY

In the reign of King Edward III in England between 1350 - 59 while King Edward held King John of France and King David Bruce of Scotland captive in England, they were housed and eluded recapture by being housed in the house of his Chief Surgeon, John De Leche. Upon their departure, for the Royal hospitality offered, King Edward gave John De Leche three crowns. When granted an estate later he had 3 crowns resembling those given him on his coat of arms. This coat of arms may be used by anyone of lineal descent from John De Leche. From John De Leche descended the American brothers Lawrence and John Leach who came to Salem, Massachutts..

Lawrence Leach was born in England about 1580 he had married his wife Elizabeth and they had 9 children. Being a non-conformist; namely: - a Separatist of the Church of England (Episcopalian) he spent periods of time in prison. Due to being of the ranking class in England he agreed to go with the government to the New World. Lawrence came to America on the ship "Abigail" in 1628 or 9. He came on the same ship that brought Captain John Endicott, governor of the Massachusetts Bay Co.

Also in the fleet of other ships were Rev. Higginson, John Leach, brother of Lawrence; Major William Hawthorne; John Balch, and Roger Conant. These men managed the affairs of Massachusetts colony until 1642. In 1637 when the Massachusetts Bay Co. made freemen and citizenship of those having worked out their passage. Lawrence and John Leach were listed as both citizens and freemen. Lawrence Leach was one of the founders of the First Church of Christ in Salem, Mass. Lawrence Leach was prominent after 1642 in Civic affairs he was councilman and held other positions. In 1637 Lawrence Leach was granted 100 acres of land, he was a farmer, millwright and foundryman. Lawrence's grant of land was called Rial-side.

Rial-side was a center of mills and grain storage. Roads were built from the various towns of Wenham, Salem, Bridgwater, Beverly, Weymouth and Manchester. Because of the importance of Rial-side and its industry, Lawrence Leach and his brother John Leach owned the first iron foundry in the New World. The iron foundry helped to establish Massachusetts earlier as a civilization than the colonies in Virginia and New York. The iron foundry made nails, bolts, locks, tools and ammunition as well as iron parts for ships in the New World. John Leach managed the iron foundry and Lawrence managed the mills and farm.

James Leach, son of Lawrence was a weaver, he had left the First Church of Christ and being somewhat adventurous moved to the north to Rockinghan Co., New Hampshire. While in New Hampshire he joined the Quaker reform. In Portsmouth, New Hampshire he was Tythingman, councilman and Constable. James Leach was given a grant of 60 acres on an Island called Great Island but James changed it to Leach Island by which it is still called today. Upon his death this island went to his sons John and James who sold it.

James Leach son of Lawrence and grandson of John De Leche inheriting and selling Leach Island moved his family to Connecticutt. James was a farmer settling in Windham County. He was prominent in civic affairs.

Amos Leach, son of James and great grandson of Lawrence moved to Fairfield county with his family. Here he purchased 100 acres of land in a rich valley from the Pequant Indians. This piece of land became known as Leach Hollow and the town nearby was called Quaker Hill which was later changed to Sherman. Amos Leach and his wife Mary Martin were the first settlers in Quaker Hill where he began to build his home. He was mayor and councilman in its early days as Quaker Hill.

Ebenezer Leach son of Amos and great-great grandson of Lawrence lived in Sherman farming the Leach farm and taking part in helping the troops of Connecticut during the Revolutionary War. Ebenezer Leach had gone to town with a wagon load of grain and was pressed into taking a load of supplies to the troops. He was gone two weeks before being allowed to return to his farm and family. He was later given recognition by his name being entered as one helping the troops of Connecticut.

William Leach only son of Amos and great-great-great grand son of Lawrence inherited the Leach farm until his death. It then going to his oldest son Moses W. and Ira and William Jr. collectively.

Ira Leach farmed in Connecticut then being somewhat adventureous moved to the Northwest Territory the part later called Illinois with his son Edwin at the time of the western expansion. This was the moving away from the close Quaker tradition which the family had been associated with for nearly 300 years.

Edwin Leach was born the 24th of June 1839 in Leach Hollow Connecticutt. While still at an early age his parents moved westward to Clinton County, Illinois. Here on the Frontier he grew up as a farmer. Then with three sons young William, Walter and Frank Barrett, he moved farther westward with expansion movement going to Valley County, Nebraska. Again he tock up farming as an occupation. Later there was another son Charlie + sister Blanche Walter Edwin Leach left home and the farm for Omaha, Nebraska to seek his fortune in the city. Work was scarce and times hard but he managed as a paper carrier to spend time enough there to complete a six month business school course.

Cramped by the style of living, the hustle bustle of people and the restrained freedoms compared to the open spaces of farm life severely frustrated him. With the approach of spring and hearing about new homestead lands open to settlers in North Dakota, Walter, now 24 years old, rode a freight train with the westward movement. Attracted by the open space and challenged by the spring beauty of the Dakotas he filed for homesteading 160 acres of land 10 miles due north of Minot.

Using the prairie sod as bricks, he built a small one room house. Plowed, planted and harvested a small acreage for grain then returned to Lincoln, Nebraska where he persuaded his boyhood sweetheart into going back to the new found rainbow of American life. They were married on January 14,1902 filled with beautiful dreams and hopes of great things to come.

Reality, however gave to my mother a very different feeling when she arrived at the new home. The bright city lights, the social atmosphere of a college environment the freedom and independence of a glamor world was at an end. Instead was the frugal thrift, sacrifice, privation and hard work of the frontier. This she had known only too well in her early childhood, but later teenage years spent in Lincoln, Nebraska and college environment had planted to her mind and spirit a different perspective to life. Thereafter this permeated all her thinking, ambitions and goals for helself and her family. Honor and duty bound to her marriage covenants, a high personal integrity with love for family ties, trust in a divine providence, determination, self reliance and hope were ever to be her watchwords. Disappointment, discouragement or defeat was never to be surfaced in her character except on extremely extenuating circumstances and her closest confidants. Devotion to her beloved husband and her family must take all precident.

Four sons and a daughter graced this union over the next nine years. At the same time the grain fields expended, the livestock multiplied and services to the growing community increased until he was considered one of the areas outstanding farmers. Touched by such financial success so early in life, he thought again of changes for an easier life with more opportunities for his family. Selling everything he set his sights farther west to Great Falls, Montane. He her purchased a large twelve room doctor's mansion completely furnished and settled down in town, but Spring with its open air again moved him in search of another farm and home.

He traded the mansion for a fully stocked and equipped farm in the hill country at Sand Coulee, Montana. The family was moved at the close of school. But, by Fall another move was scheduled because rattlesnakes were so thick and distructive. They killed many curious calves and colts. They were constantly inside buildings, on door steps, under most anything and even in the house.

Taking a big loss on this sale, he gleefully moved the family back to the valley just south of Great Falls. He purchased an undeveloped homestead near Nashua in 1912 and became a part of the homestead movement strating up in that area. He divided his activities between the two places for the next two years when he moved the family to Nashua. Another daughter, Birdena Belle, was born on July 22, 1914, just three months before the family immigration in October. Besides developing a rather large land holding, he and his wife became very active in community development, farm cooperative movements and leadership positions of service.

Stricken suddenly by illness, Walter died January 4, 1925 at age 48 yrs. That Fall the family left the plains country for the beautiful Gallatin Valley and Bozeman, Montana. Here on a small farm with their mother, the children continued their education before breaking up to scatter in their individual ways.

Therlow Ray Leach, second child of Walter Edwin Leach and Theodora Birdena Standley Leach was born at Minot, North Dakota on February 19, 1904. At six years of age, he moved with the family to Great Falls, Montana and four years later to Nashua, Montana where he grew up on the 900 acre dairy, lovestock and wheat ranch. Graduating from Nashua High School in 1923, he entered Monta State College in the Fall of 1924. While there in school, his father was stricken with appendicitis and passed away on January 4, 1925. Therlow returned home to operate the farm with his mother. While Vernon, the older brother, who was going to the University at Missoula, took over the manageship of the Farmers Cooperative Grain Elevator previously run by his father. In the fall the farm was sold and the family moved to Bozeman where the three older children continued college that fall.

While attending Epworth League of the Methodist Episcople church, Therlow met Rhoda Alice Reed during his first term in Bozeman. Financial problems of supporting the family and maintaining four children in college became so burdensome that Therlow quit school for another year to operate the small home farm and work for neighbors.

On June 9,1928 Therlow and Alice were married in her home. He carried mail on a Star Route and farmed until the spring of 1930 when they immigrated to Thermopolis, Wyoming with their first daughter Alta Rae.

Grubbing sage brush by hand, installing and developing an irrigation system, living in a 12'X16' tent house, battling the elements, and above all the growing privations of the great depression two more daughters Ruth Ellen and Myrtle Ann came into the household.

Missionaries blessed the home with the Gospel and baptism into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints on March 11, 1932. By midsummer of 1932,a third daughter was born and displacement from the farm, because of the great depression, became evident. Thus plans were laid and a trip was made to Salt Lake City and the Temple where they received their endowments and had their three girls sealed to them. About one month later they left most everything but memories and the family returned to Bozeman, Montana.

While working on a dairy farm, Therlow broke his leg just before Christmas and was laid up until spring. Over the next three years work was scarce and times hard but love prevailed and two boys Gerald LeRoy and Clifford Wayne joined the family.

Upon getting a professionally rated job in drafting under W.P.A., Therlow re-entered college. Three months later he was enrolled in school concurrently. Thus more uncertain and lesser employment was resorted to again for the next three years while struggling on through college. Clifford was lost by drowning in 1938 and graduation from Montana State College came in 1940.

With school out of the way the family moved to Stanford, Montana where Therlow taught Vocational Agriculture. In the fall of 1941, following a very serious bout and surgery for gall stones he moved the family west to Oregon City, Oregon. Outbreak of World War II gave furtherance to his teaching career by 4 years in the War Production Training Program. Then in 1945 he accepted the position of Vocational Agriculture Instructor at Oregon City High School. This position he filled until 1959 when the department was closed because of urbanization of the area. A sixth child, Phyllis, was born to them in May 1943. Throughout the years the family was very active in school, church and community affairs.

The four older children gone from home to the military service, away to school or married, moves again beset the family. This time in 1960 to Oroville, California where Therlow took employment with the Farmers Home Administration under the United States Department of Agriculture. Successive moves during the next few years followed to Red Bluff; Overton, Nev.; Stockton, Ca.; Modesto, Ca.; and finally to Fresno in 1964. Service to farmers and rural people paid the bills while community and church activities kept their life full and meaningful.

Terminating 12 years and 26 days of government employment with the Farmers Home Administration he entered another phase of life retiring on May 1, 1972.

Sincerely yours,

Jean Palmer

Librarian
Local History/Special Collections

There was a Crum family which came to Onondaga County in 1818 (Warners in Town of Camillus) - in the genealogy we have of them I do not see a marriage to a Mr. Leach which might produce a middle name Crum.

Chase, Syracuse & its Environs v. ~~2~~ pt 2 p 126 (1924)

says that Thomas J. Leach, b. Cicero, N.Y. Apr. 8, 1830
d. Syr. N.Y. 9-12-1912

was the son of John & Harriet (Demming) Leach
John b May 19, ~~1777~~ 1777 d. Jan 28, 1846
Harriet b. Jan. 1, 1779, d Jan. 6, 1837
2 sons & 1 daughter
John arrived in Cicero 1803

Chase is very reliable as is Dwight H. Bruce who edited Onondaga's Centennial (2 v.)
1896

which states v. 1 p. 811
"The first settlement on the site of Cicero corners was made in 1802 by John Leach, who for several years kept tavern in a log house. He was the grandfather of T. J. Leach, of Syracuse."

The Rev. Wm M. Beauchamp, in his Past & Present of Onondaga County v. 2 p 282 (1908) says in its biographical sketch with portrait of Thomas J. Leach, "Mr Leach is a native of Onondaga County, being born in Cicero April 8, 1830. His father was a native of New York state, an early settler of Cicero ... mother was Dorcas Deming, also a native of New York state. To this family were born three children, two sons and a daughter, of whom Thomas J. is only one now living."

A note in the Vertical File says Dorcas Deming was John Leach' 2nd wife.

A note in the Syracuse newspapers Nov 21, 1912 says that Thomas J. Leach had a sister Harriet and a daughter Mrs Charles Crouse
